GRAND FORKS WORRIED OVER POWER

Petition Addressed to Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council Seeks Legalization of Service

SITUATION PUT UNDER REVIEW

Extension of Area Served Under Various Orders Would Take Question Out of Courts

THE City of Grand Forks, through its counsel, Mr. F. A. McDiarmid, has prepared a petition in connection with the dispute regarding power service in that section of British Columbia. The petition is addressed to the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council. It asks that the area within which the West Kootenay Power & Light Company undertaking is confined by the various orders-in-council, water records, additional license and final licenses, which govern the supply of electricity from Bonnington Falls, be extended to cover such an extent as to include the city of Grand Forks, and that the company be authorized to export or supply electricity to the city.

SITUATION REVIEWED

Recently the judgment of the court of investigation under the Water Act declared it illegal for the company to export or supply electricity outside a radius of fifty miles of Roseland, situated in the West Kootenay district. The company is now appealing the decision. According to the petition, the city of Grand Forks, and districts of Cascade, Oliver, Penit, Summerland, Naramata, Princeton and Altonby, are illegitimately receiving a supply, except Roseland and Trail.

Early Announces 10 Per Cent Increase in Employees' Wages

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6.—Charles E. King, vice-president and general manager of the Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., announced from the Vancouver office today that, effective October 1, the wages of the company's employees had been increased approximately 10 per cent. This increase, said Mr. King, came as the result of the recent advance in metal prices, principally copper, and from the fact that the company had adopted the new wage scale in the year of the company's prosperity.

Approximately 2,000 employees would be directly affected, he added.

Russia Said to Be Carrying Military Burden Approximately as Great as Under Old Regime

NEIGHBORS FEEL GROWING CONCERN

PARIS, Oct. 6.—(United Press)—Russia's mysterious Red Army, her rapidly expanding air fleet and her reborn navy are being regarded with growing concern in virtually all capitals of Europe.

Nine years ago the destruction of the Soviet fleet was an accomplished fact, but today the Soviet boasts two fleets. One is a high seas fleet, and the other is a coast protection fleet.

Russians already claim that the Red Fleet controls the Baltic Sea, and easily could bottle up the neighboring states from Poland all the way up to Finland.

WAR GRAVES PERMANENT MONUMENTS

Col H. T. Goodland, C.B., D.S.O., Retires After Nine Years as Deputy Controller of War Graves

RUDYARD KIPLING EULOGIZES WORK

Ten-Million-Dollar Memorial to Heroic Dead Will Be Perpetuated by Endowment Fund

YOUR work is greater than the pyramid of all times and will live forever.

These were the remarks made by Rudyard Kipling to his friend, Col. H. T. Goodland, C.B., D.S.O., formerly of Victoria, on the occasion of his retirement after nine strenuous years' work as deputy controller of the War Graves Commission in France.

Colonel Goodland has returned to Victoria to take up his residence here after an absence from Canada of nearly seventeen years. He left Canada for England on business in 1912. At that time he was an officer of the 101st Battalion in Edmonton, having been transferred there from Victoria. When war was declared he became an officer in the Royal Munster Fusiliers, going with that regiment to Gallipoli. He also took part in the campaign at Solomica. While there he was stricken with para-typhoid and sent to No. 5 Canadian General Hospital, which was staffed entirely by Victoria and Vancouver officers, medical men and nurses.

GOES TO FRANCE

After his discharge from hospital he followed his battalion to France and Belgium, arriving there early in 1916. He was in command of the Royal Fusiliers at the time of the historic retreat in March, 1918, at St. Quentin, when the whole of the Sixteenth Irish Division was wiped out.

It was with a desire to assure widows and parents of those who lost their lives not only in Flanders fields, but also in other parts of the world where the Great War took its toll, that the graves of the loved ones are being properly cared for that Colonel Goodland, since his return to Canada, has generously offered to the War Graves Commission all the money he has accumulated and told them the story of the creation of permanent war cemeteries.

Colonel Goodland was appointed deputy controller of war graves in France in July, 1919, by the vice-chairman, Major-General Sir Fabian Ware, to take entire charge of operations in France and Belgium.

In taking over the work from the directorate of graves, registration, and inquiries, Col. Goodland was faced with a difficult task. It was a position that called for patience and diplomacy. One of the most treasured letters possessed by Colonel Goodland is a personal one from the Prince of Wales, who commends the colonel and expresses his appreciation for the work that has been brought to so successful a conclusion.

OVER LARGE STAFF

A staff of 2,000 came under Colonel Goodland's control. Municipalities had to be approached tactfully to acquire land for permanent cemeteries. Records of bones and identification of bodies also entailed a great deal of work. Headquarters was established at St. Omer, near the battlefield. Sub-offices were established throughout France and Belgium to organize the establishment of cemeteries in the various battle zones.

KITSILANO FORESHORE CLAIMED BY PROVINCE

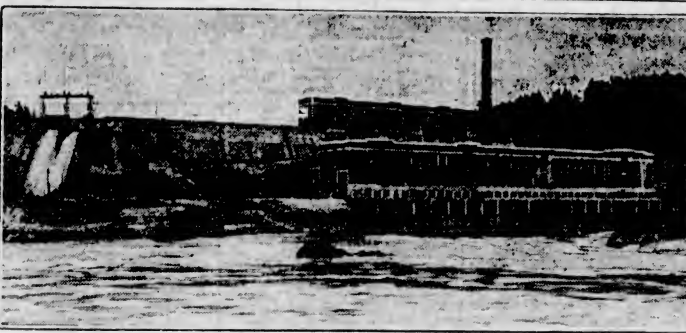

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6.—Unless an agreement signed by the former Liberal Ministry is cancelled, Vancouver city will have to deal directly with the province in its efforts to secure control of the Kitsilano Indian Reserve lands. This agreement, it is learned, is still definitely in force and under its provision the Provincial Government has no equity in the reserve and no control over its future use.

The province, however, has not surrendered its claim to the foreshore contiguous to the reserve lands and this fact, ascertained today, may have a vital bearing on the future of the whole problem.

FALLING ROCK KILLS RAILWAY ENGINEER

EVERETT, Wash., Oct. 6.—John S. McCrossen, about fifty-five, formerly of Everett, an assistant engineer for the Great Northern, was almost instantly killed Friday afternoon when he was struck by a rock within the new Cascade tunnel.

Great Engineering Feat Accomplished

THE opening of this great power plant on Gaitneau River crowns a remarkable adventure in engineering. The whole surface of the Gaitneau, a large and turbulent river which flows into the Ottawa River at Ottawa city, has been changed, and the power line which runs to Toronto is the greatest power line in the world. Gaitneau Power Co. has begun delivery of power to Ontario. With the throwing of the switches the dream of the hydro engineers, a power load balancing the "load" from Niagara becomes a reality. It also signals the perfection of one of the greatest engineering developments the world has known.

Representatives From 170 Boards of Trade to Travel to Peace River

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6.—Representatives of 170 Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce throughout Canada will visit the Peace River country in September, 1929, it was announced at Vancouver Board of Trade headquarters today.

The visitors will be delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which will hold its meetings next September at Calgary and Edmonton, to be followed by an excursion into the Peace River country.

Vancouver Board of Trade members will almost certainly make this their annual outing for 1929. Decision of the council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to meet again in the West in 1929 was reached at Toronto on September 18, after Toronto had relinquished its right to claim the convention.

MR. BALDWIN'S CHANCES GOOD

BRITISH CONSERVATIVES ARE HAPPY OVER OUTLOOK FOR GENERAL ELECTION

Liberals Would Like Coalition With Labor—Labor Desires to Hold Power Alone

By HERBERT BAILEY (Copyright, 1928, by British United Press).

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Lloyd George is always enterprising and thorough. He is sending his secretary, Mr. Silvester, and his chief publicity agent, Gordon West, on a two months' tour of the United States to study the political methods of both the Republicans and Democrats.

They have left on the Mauretania and will tour the country from coast to coast. Lloyd George hopes to benefit from the impressions of the tour, and the Liberal Party preparations for the next election.

Meanwhile, the Liberals are not taking President Lansbury's declaration that there could be no union between them and the Labor Party very seriously. They still believe that if the two parties can establish a government, they will automatically be utilized by him in his preparations for the next election.

LABOR'S PLATFORM

What impressed the public most in connection with Labor's meeting Friday was the party's determination to stand on no nonsense from the Communists, due to the Communists' intrigues against moderate Labor leaders and the fear that the electorate would never support a party tainted by Communism.

The ideal of Socialism in our time is regarded as vague. Certainly there is no fear, even among the Tories, that a Labor Party majority would mean the overturning of the British economical system, although naturally the Conservatives will exploit the Socialist programme as a warning to the country against what are termed "Reds."

The Tories are quite happy at the project of the next election because, in spite of the safeguarding issue, there is as much unity as possible in a party of such size, and the Liberals and Labor are both handicapped by disunion.

B.C. Airways Ltd. Plane Is Used to Find Lost Hunters

TWO hunters, lost on Salt Spring Island, were found through the use of the B.C. Airways Ltd. Eagle Rock plane yesterday. A farmer and his son came from Salt Spring Island yesterday, and asked B.C. Airways officials to help in the hunt for his son and boy friend. Pilot A. H. Wilson took the farmer up and flew low over Salt Spring Island. At an altitude of 100 feet the plane quickly secured the island, and eventually located the two hunters, who were found to be in a safe condition. The farmer remarked as he departed here:

"Well it was worth the expenses to set my mind at rest. I was quite concerned about the boys."

Vancouver Pilot Crashes in Plane On Lulu Island

VANCOUVER, Oct. 6.—Crashing more than 200 feet into an irrigation ditch on the farm of Albert Smith, Odium Road, Lulu Island, a two-seater biplane piloted by Edward Luke, Fifteenth Avenue West, was almost completely wrecked at 3:40 p.m. Luke was taken to the General Hospital in a private automobile. He is suffering from bruises and scratches. The plane, which was marked "C-C Air B.C. Airways, Victoria," was delivered to the Spry-Shaw Flying School on Thursday, and had recently just taken off from the city's temporary airport, near Lansdowne track, when it turned toward the west when the pilot evidently lost control of the aircraft. It went into a spin and crashed.

EAST KOOTENAY COMPANY
SECURES PRIVILEGE TO USE
WATER FROM ELK RIVER

Long Negotiations Precede Action to Give Licence Requested
—Prevent Development

The announcement made in The Colonist a few days ago to the effect that the East Kootenay Power Company had been granted authority for the diversion of 1,000 additional cubic feet of water per second from Elk River, upon the approval of the plans for the works, carries with it a record of wonderful development in the matter of industrial life in the eastern part of the province.

The application for the rights dates back to the year 1924. In that year the East Kootenay Power Company made application for the use of the water, designating Phillips Canyon, near Fernie, as the point where the power was to be derived. The purpose was to meet the demands put upon the company in filling the requirements of the section of the province extending to the eastern boundary.

About the same time the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, being a large consumer of power at Kimberley, and needing power there, made application for the same water. Neither applicant at that time proceeded with its application by presenting it to a conclusion with the water rights branch.

The matter was allowed to rest until early this year, when Mr. Charles McNab made application for the right to develop power over this location, the main consumer of which was set out to be a proposed pulp company.

TWO LEFT IN STRUGGLE
When the matter came before the water controller this Spring, the Consolidated Company withdrew from the picture, stating that it was satisfied with the East Kootenay services, which were being supplied by the company, and the matter was thus left to be fought out between the East Kootenay Company and Mr. McNab.

The pulp people, who were to be the consumers from Mr. McNab, asked for time to investigate just what would be their requirements, and when they would be ready to take it, and agreed to be ready by the end of June to proceed with the application. When the adjourned date was reached, Mr. McNab did not return to press his application, and the only applicant left in the field was the East Kootenay Power Company, which was accordingly given approval of its undertaking.

This is the preliminary step only to the securing of a water licence under the act by the company, which has in view the supplementing thereby of its power for sale.

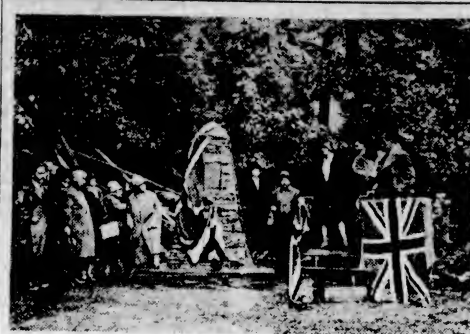

The new requirement which the company finds itself obliged to fill indicates the tremendous development of that section of the province as a consumer of power for industrial purposes and for private consumption among the citizens of the various centres served.

EXISTING DEVELOPMENT
This new application will represent something like 15,000 horsepower. Already the East Kootenay Company is utilizing about 19,000 horsepower from the Elk River; 7,200 horsepower from Bull Creek, and 5,000 supplementary horsepower from a steam plant just across the line in Alberta, and which is designed to carry the situation over the period of low water.

Commemorate Pioneer

IN connection with the unveiling at Leechtown last Monday, by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, of a monument to Lieut. Peter Leech, who discovered gold there in July, 1864, the explorer's daughter, Mrs. Faucault (Fanny Leech) and her son, of Wallachton, were present as the special guests of the Historical Society, which erected the cairn. Mrs. Faucault is seen in the above picture giving her little speech of grateful acknowledgment of the tribute paid her father. Others on the platform include His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Mr. John House, provincial architect, Mr. Faucault and Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn. Standing on the right-hand side of the monument is Mrs. S. P. Tolmie, wife of the Premier. In the left background can be seen part of the ruins of the old gold commissioner's house, erected in 1864, and immediately over the little platform is one of the two apple trees which, history records, one of Governor Kennedy's daughters planted in 1869 during a short residence in the mining camp. Although there were in the heyday some two thousand miners living in Leechtown, and several hotels, stores and saloons, the place has long since reverted to forest following a devastating fire which swept through the country about thirty-four years ago.

ROADS NEEDED TO SNOWFLAKE MINE

High-Grade Galena Showing Is Believed to Warrant Better
Transportation Facilities

The recent strike of high-grade galena ore in the Snowflake Mine, near Revelstoke, promises to be the forerunner of the development of a new mining camp in this province, which takes in a territory comprising some 200 square miles in area. The ore, which has been revealed, carries values varying from $20 to $60 to the ton, and the richest part of the ore body has not yet been encountered, it is believed. Mr. J. B. Williams, of Vancouver, and Mr. Lloyd L. Sippell, of New Westminster, who are interested in the company, the former being president and the latter treasurer, were in the city yesterday endeavoring to interest the Government in the project, in the providing of better transportation facilities to the place so that the required machinery and supplies may be taken in without difficulty.

SEE MINISTERS

They met the Minister of Public Works, Hon. N. S. Lougheed, and the Minister of Mines, Hon. W. A. McKenzie, who is also deeply interested in the development of the mining facilities of the province. Premier Tolmie was also seen in connection with the matter, and his hearty co-operation was enlisted in opening up what may prove a new mining section for the province. The members of the Government have given the delegation the assurance that the engineers of the Public Works Department will investigate the situation and report. If it is found essential that there should be improvements carried out the work will be done if the developments taking place there give an assurance of permanency.

In the meantime it has been promised that a bridge that lies on the route will be strengthened, so as to avoid any danger in the transport of supplies and machinery. The Snowflake Mine is located on Silver Creek, five and a half miles from the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and is two miles west of Albert Canyon. It is about nineteen miles from the city of Revelstoke.

CHIEF STRIKE

The recent strike that has been made in the mine is on the main tunnel which has been driving for some time, and which is now in about 950 feet from the portal of the tunnel. One of the series of four veins that lie parallel in the mineralized zone has been cut, and from this the values referred to have been obtained.

This vein is, however, the leanest of the series, there being an increase of the richest constituents in the ore in this vein. The depth of the ore on the vein where encountered is 550 feet.

The assurance of depth is borne out by the fact that the Wolsey Mine, which is operating on the same veins, has struck rich showings, although 1,700 feet below the Snowflake.

NAVAL EXPANSION PROPOSALS

When the United States Congress reassembles in December on issue before it likely to arouse considerable controversy is that of naval expansion. The programme known as the Seventy-One Craft Bill has now been discredited, and possibly is more discredited than ever since the signing of the Kellogg Peace Pact. That does not mean that the United States Navy Department will not press for naval increases. It is now ready to recommend to Congress, as a preliminary, the laying down of five 10,000-ton cruisers in each of the years 1929, 1930 and 1931. The United States Navy Department claims that America should have forty-three modern cruisers. She now has ten of 7,500 tons with six-inch armament in commission. She has eight of 10,000 tons with eight-inch armament under construction. Provision of the fifteen 10,000-ton vessels contemplated by the Navy Department would give a total of thirty-three. This number would be maintained until the opportunity arises to persuade Congress to authorize an additional ten cruisers.

The Navy Department, in making the recommendation for fifteen 10,000-ton cruisers, is going on the assumption that the Treaty for the Renunciation of War will not affect its plans. Both President Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg have made it clear that this treaty and the question of national defence, "must not be considered as having any relation the one to the other." The Navy Department of the United States, in support of its arguments, will be able to quote the Anglo-French naval compromise. If the question of such additions to the American Navy as are proposed were being considered now they would probably meet with substantial opposition in Congress. Between now and the time they will be considered a presidential election will have taken place and there is no knowing what the attitude of Congress will be by December next.

CONTENTMENT

A speaker before the Canadian Club has been emphasizing the danger of losing sight of the spiritual side of civilization. It is a timely warning, for in these days of stress and pressure, when the materialistic viewpoint holds sway, too many are being carried out of themselves by the swirl of their surroundings. What is often forgotten is that happiness depends infinitely less on the circumstances of our lives than what we are ourselves. There is a cult which spreads the gospel of the victimization of circumstances, but the theory enunciated is all wrong. Man is never the victim of circumstances until he deliberately capitulates to them. The citadel of his happiness lies within himself. It is the inner satisfactions, derived from experience and character and fortified by faith, that are the builders of the spiritual side of civilization.

In modern civilization the virtue of contentment finds too little place in the conception of the moral ideal; yet contentment is a virtue which defies circumstances. What, after all, do the ceaseless efforts to "improve circumstances" mean? They spring from dissatisfaction with present fortunes. Where there is dissatisfaction there can be no happiness, no contentment. In every stage of the world's history there have been obvious injustices which humanity has striven to right; there have been hardships from which escape is sought; there have been impulses of discontent which have driven men to improve their lot. These are necessary and laudable efforts in the march of civilization, but only incidentally, have they anything to do with that inner harmony which it is the task of the individual, not the mass, to nurture. There can be contentment without any acquiescence in the conditions in which we live. Those conditions have to do with worldly goods, with the place in a social order, with the trappings of life; not with the moral and spiritual realities.

The circumstances of life are questions of environment, possessions and privileges, things, in fact, which betoken the material welfare of man. They do not constitute the highest welfare. They have nothing to do with spiritual attainment. Wherein there is failure to recognize this the march of civilization brings humanity no nearer to contentment, but, on the contrary, increases the bondage of circumstances, and tends to destroy that confidence which is convinced that true happiness must be found within ourselves. That part of discontent which makes for spiritual attainment has nothing to do with environment, or the circumstances of our lives. It is discontent with ourselves, evidenced by a desire to advance in knowledge of the truth and the realization that a great distance lies between present attainments and the goal in view. There is self-satisfaction in material gains; there is no certainty that they can bring a higher standard of moral life. On the contrary, the mind which becomes obsessed in the making of material gains may be robbed of its spiritual vigor.

"The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment." This is the answer of Christ to those who believe that spiritual contentment is to be achieved by the betterment of one's circumstances. Contentment rests alone within the heart of each individual, to be won by the faith which interprets experience in the light of moral purpose. The acquisition of moral happiness has nothing to do with the luxuries won by labor. All these are but the husks of life. Its kernel lies within, "for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." It is moral worth that counts. It is faith in the assurance of Divine Goodness. It is the full appreciation of truth, purity and love. It is the expression of the soul, of its powers and its destiny. It is the faith that all life's purpose stands knocking at the portals of higher attainment. These are the realizations that bring contentment, that make for the spiritual advancement of civilization. In those lives where these purposes are maintained there is no night of unhappiness, and worldly circumstances do not blight. In the search after contentment the world is a "vale of soul-making." Those who win through to the light beyond who respond the most to the realities of the spirit.

WIRELESS WAVES

Radio users in this country, and their number is legion, are rightly incensed over the apparent determination of the United States Radio Commission to control wave channels over this continent. There is an instance of the monopolistic attitude assumed by that body in the refusal to allocate an exclusive wave channel to the station being erected by the Government of Manitoba. In commenting on this refusal The Ottawa Journal says: "The Government of this country must tell the United States that Washington no more controls radio wave lengths for this continent than it controls the rising and setting of the sun, and that Canada proposes to go ahead with radio development and broadcasting just as though the United States did not exist." In the impulse that has arisen the advice of The Ottawa Journal is hardly likely to be adopted by the Government of Mr. Mackenzie King, which temporizes in so many matters where American interests are involved. The question is one, however, which should engage the attention of Canada's Minister at Washington. There is an opportunity for diplomacy to reach a modus vivendi on wireless waves.

There is speculation as to whether the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Gloucester, when they arrived at Mombasa, had their golf clubs, which are among their luggage, taxed as agricultural implements. A lady who recently visited there had to pay duty on her golf clubs. Presumably the belief in Mombasa is that a spade is a spade, and therefore anything that serves the purpose of disturbing the earth. One newspaper in hinting at the possibility of Their Royal Highnesses being called upon to pay duty on golf clubs recalls an old golfing aphorism to the effect that "Golf is not agriculture," but adds that a cynical farmer on hearing this said, "though both are games of chance." The arguments in favor of Mombasa's way of levying duty seem to be convincing.

Mr. Thomas Edison, the inventor, says prohibition in the United States is being enforced about 60 per cent. The anti-narcotic law in that country, he believes, is enforced about 50 per cent, and the law against the operation of hold-up men only about 15 per cent. Mr. Edison has been giving his views about a variety of subjects including the Kellogg Pact for the renunciation of war. Of this he says: "A nice thing, but I doubt if it is practical. We shall probably always have wars, for we go along with no change in our habits. It would be necessary to change human nature first."

PRAYER TO TIME

Linger a little, Time, to be our friend—
Linger a little too.
Drive us not on too swiftly to our end.
Out of this pleasant place.

Here we have found such manifold delights—
Earth-love and Love Divine.
Clouds on the hills and insect-wings at night;
Kissing and food and wine.

Let us prolong our pretty pantomime.
Make us not dance so fast!
Lend us our lives a little longer, Time—
They will be yours at last!

MUTTON AND WOOL

Sheep-raising has made New Zealand a great exporting country of wool and mutton. Even today Canada still imports a great portion of her wool from abroad. It is only reasonable that she should furnish herself with her own wool. She could even export it. The population of Canada would easily become a profitable clientele for the sale of mutton. Sheep-raising could be started as a secondary industry for the Canadian farm and could be made into an important source of profit.—Three Rivers Newsletter.

The men and women, though they be poor, ignorant, blundering, who day by day are quietly setting aside their own pleasure for the sake of some other person's welfare, are the true heroes of the world.—George S. Merriam.

Depend on no man, on no friend, but him who can depend on himself. He only who acts conscientiously towards himself, will act so towards others.—Johann Kaspar Lavater.

To be deceived by our enemies or betrayed by our friends is insupportable, yet by ourselves we are contented to be so treated.—La Rochefoucauld.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

The farmer is said to be an inveterate grumbler. The British farmer is grumbling and the United States farmer is grumbling. The Canadian farmer is not grumbling just now, probably because he is too busy handling his tremendous wheat crop and his other big crops to have time to think about his troubles and to grumble. Politicians seldom agree upon any subject, but the British politicians are agreed upon one subject. They agree that the British farmer has reasons for grumbling. The United States politicians also agree that the American farmer has one reason for grumbling.

The British farmer has reason for grumbling because his industry in every particular is in a bad way. The United States farmer has reason for grumbling because his industry in one particular is in a bad way. One British political party would stop the British farmer from grumbling by nationalizing the land. Both United States political parties would stop the American farmer from grumbling by nationalizing the crops. The British farmer does not want his land nationalized. The United States farmer wants his crops nationalized. That is, he wants the Government to take over the crop, feed the native population with it at a fixed price, and unload whatever surplus there may be upon the markets of the world at any price the product will fetch upon those unprotected markets. Any loss that might be sustained in this simple or complex process would be assumed by the Government and charged against the general taxpayer.

The United States politicians will not agree to the nationalization of the crops upon any such basis. They fear such a drastic remedy for the grumbling of the farmers might set all the remainder of the population grumbling in their throats, and even deeper down. The ordinary consumer might vigorously protest against paying the highest possible prices for everything he wanted to eat as well as part of the price the consumers of other countries paid for the residue they did eat. The United States politicians therefore only approve of the policy of the grumbling farmers up to a certain point. They are willing to semi-nationalize the crops of the grumbling farmer, but insist that the loss incurred in handling and marketing the surplus after the people of the United States have been fed at a nationalized price shall be borne by the farming industry. The grumbling American farmer seems to think that after the balance had been struck under such a system the conditions in the future would be about the same as they are at present.

Fruit growing is a branch of the farming industry, and if the fruit-growers of British Columbia are not grumbling, it is not because they are without reason for grumbling. For the fruit-growers of the Pacific Coast States have been practising on a small scale something the general farmers of the United States want the Government to practise on a big scale. Their domestic markets are assured to them absolutely by a system of protection. This year they have produced more fruit than the domestic market can absorb. But they have maintained high prices for the home product by taking care not to overload the market. The surplus has been "dumped" in the Western Provinces of Canada at any price procurable.

The Canadian Government of course knows that that is not doing business upon a fair basis; but the free traders of the Prairies, who believe in free trade in what they are compelled to buy and in protection for everything they have to sell, will not permit the Government to do justice to the fruit-growers of this and other provinces.

But the experience upon a comparatively small scale of the fruit-growers of this province may soon be the experience upon a large scale not only of the agricultural industry of Canada but of many other Canadian industries. Both the political parties of the United States are at the present time engaged in a bitter struggle for power. Both of those parties are committed to a policy of protection to the aim for every industry. One of the leaders in American public affairs has candidly warned Canadians that they need not look for any modification of the tariff against the agricultural products of Canada. Effective protection for home products must necessarily precede nationalization of industries. Tariff schedules will be stiffened, and if favorable railway rates encourage importations and modify the principles of protection, then the railway rates can be altered too. This is a phase of the situation that already has been brought before the United States Railway Commission and is relieving serious consideration.

Excesses of international friendship and goodwill are all very well in their place, but in matters of business the supreme consideration is what is best in the interests of the people of the United States. That also is a matter the Government of Canada will soon have to give its most serious consideration.

Higher Education

By SEMPRE AVANTI

The crux of the whole situation lies in the fact that the power to open the doors of the University to our schools of higher education is in the hands of the University Senate. Hitherto, at the situation in Vancouver all too plainly proves the University, by refusing to recognize the graduates of the Technical High School, the Commercial High School and the School of Art, has failed to co-operate with the Department of Education to promote the best interests of education in the province. The reaction of this adverse attitude on the part of the University upon the higher education of the province generally takes one of the following forms. The graduates of these schools who wish to continue their studies further, who are not able to give to the province the expense of sending them out, are stalled in their educational progress. For the graduates of the Commercial High School or the School of Art, there is no choice if they desire to proceed to University, provided they can afford it, but to go outside the province to some other University, usually the University of Washington, in the case of Technical High school students, those whose parents can afford the additional expense, send their sons to the University of Washington, which does recognize the B. C. Technical High School leaving certificate, and accepts the holders of them as bona fide University matriculants—just as an ordinary sane proceeding, not a concession. Upon the successful completion of their first year at the University of Washington, these same B. C. Technical High School graduates have a choice of two courses open to them: (a) they may either return to the University of British Columbia, which then illegally admits them into the second year of the University course, or (b) they may carry out their course to the end at the University of Washington. If this manner of procedure commends itself to any section of the British Columbia public (saving the University Senate as a body), before whose attention has been brought, we can only say that we have failed to find it. As to whether such an absurd anomaly in the matter of University recognition is likely to commend itself to the respect of the authorities of Washington University, or whether it appears to them as the "ill wind" (for British Columbia) which blows from the west, or whether it simply strikes them as a huge joke, we leave the reader to try to decide.

ADJUSTMENT NEEDED

It is, however, a very serious situation which calls for immediate action in order to right it. We therefore suggest that a definite, strenuous and soundly co-operative effort be made by the province through its Chambers of Commerce and its service clubs of both men and women to combine with the Department of Education for this one express purpose. Possibly the best means of attaining this object would be (as has been previously stated elsewhere) that, with the content and co-operation of the Ministry of Education, an Advisory Committee be formed, composed of representatives of British Columbia's leading organizations of both sexes, for the purpose of conferring with the Minister and the Department of Education as to the proper and necessary measures to be taken, not only to secure the righting of this present anomalous situation, but also to ensure the co-operation of the University Senate in the industry and self development of the province in the future.

Once this basic adjustment of relationship between the University and higher education has been effected, British Columbia might confidently look forward to effectiveness in a not too distant future.

Much time, thought and space have been given to this particular recommendation for the reason that upon its carrying out many of the other educational problems would be, to a very considerable extent, automatically solved. In this case, the new Technical High School could be launched courageously upon the soundest lines. No unsatisfactory situation would need to be thought out in order to circumvent the University stumbling block in the matter of recognition.

LOCAL PROPOSALS

These, as economy of space demands it, we shall state briefly.

(a) The appointment of an art director to replace the present one, year art course (and to be permanently incorporated in the curriculum of the Victoria "general" High School. While the present course benefits only those students with a special talent for art, and wastes the time of the untalented, the appreciation course would benefit all.

(b) To substitute an art appreciation course at Victoria High School to replace the present one, year art course (and to be permanently incorporated in the curriculum of the Victoria "general" High School. While the present course benefits only those students with a special talent for art, and wastes the time of the untalented, the appreciation course would benefit all.

Further that in the new art curriculum, special importance be attached to training leading to architecture, and that among the crafts, an effort be made to establish jewelry work (British Columbia is rich in semi-precious stones, eminently suitable for such work) as an additional branch of art work, the province holds out the most wonderful opportunities for the future.

Finally, that every encouragement be given to Oriental students to take up art and artistic craft work, as particularly along this line of work the children of these law-abiding strangers within our gates have a rich contribution to give to Canada. It may very well be that through a distinctive Canadian-Oriental art, British Columbia may in the West make a vital and permanent contribution to the fine arts of Canada, as the French-Canadian East has done and is doing in the realm of music and literature. It is too golden an opportunity to let slip, and no pact ever put upon paper could equal the "entente cordiale" it would establish between Canada and the Orient, for its foundations would be laid in the very spirit of both peoples.

(c) That the work and time expended in operating the book exchange, which are to be included in the schedule of librarian, teacher or teachers responsible for it, and be

One effort of such a system would be to inculcate a salutary respect for books in the minds of the young. These suggestions, if carried out, might prove to be of considerable help.

CONCLUDING WORD

Finally, if, as some one has said, a man is measured by the height of his ideals, the depth of his convictions, and the breadth of his sympathies, the same may truly be said of a city. We hold, therefore, before us the ideal of Victoria, the Athens of the West, her faith deep-rooted in the hearts of her young people, and her wide sympathies embracing her foreign population, eager to become Canadians. And in this faith we may dare to face forth, utterly confident that the "Lord will make His face to shine upon us and be gracious unto us."

Awards Contract For Two Big Airships
WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—A contract providing for construction of two rigid, 6,500,000 cubic feet dirigible airships at a total cost of $7,825,000 was awarded the Good-year Zeppelin Company, Akron, Ohio, by the Navy Department today.
Secretary Wilbur and Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Good-year Corporation, signed the contract which calls for construction of the dirigibles in thirty months.
When completed the dirigibles are expected to surpass in size and performance any other airships built or building in the world, according to navy officials.

HEAVY GUNS FOR SINGAPORE BASE

Experimental Weapons of Great War Shipped, Two Inches Larger Than Largest Naval Guns

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The naval correspondent of The Daily News states that the famous eighteen-inch guns which were constructed as an experiment during the Great War have been shipped to Singapore for the defence of the new naval base. No warship in the world carries guns of more than sixteen-inch calibre.
The eighteen-inch weapons are about sixty feet long, weigh nearly 100 tons each and fire a 2,323-pound projectile. So far as is known only three were completed. The first was carried by the 18,000-ton light draught cruiser Furios, one of the ships designed by Lord Fisher for his projected naval campaign to the Baltic. Originally the Furios was to have had two of these pieces mounted fore and aft, but a light deck was constructed in place of her forward turret.
When the ship was completed the after gun was fired a few times, but the concussion was found to have shaken the ship so badly that it was decided to remove the gun and extend the flight deck, converting the ship into an aircraft carrier pure and simple. As such she still figures in the navy list.
The three great guns were then mounted in the monitors Lord Clive, General Wolfe and Prince Eugene for use in bombarding the German coast; but the war ended before they could be put into service. The monitors having been discarded, the guns were left on the Admiralty's hands, and have now apparently been taken over by the War Office for the defence of Singapore.
Their immense range and destructive power should suffice to keep any possible enemy at a respectful distance. "It would be interesting to know what reserves of ammunition exist for these mammoth weapons," says The News. "Since they were fired so little during the war, it may be presumed that a considerable quantity of shells are still held unchanged."

BURGESS STUDYING COURSES OF CHANNEL
English Swimmer Charting Fast England-to-France Course—Webb's Record Stands
LONDON, Oct. 6.—There is considerable mystery attached to the English Channel swimming course from England to France being plotted by T. W. Burgess, one of the three men who have swum the Channel from the English side.
It has been proved, beyond doubt, that the English Channel can be swum within fifteen hours, but only from France to England. During the past three years very fast swims have been put up in that direction. Michael Brice, who swam to have accomplished the performance in 11 hrs. 6 mins.—although that record has not been as yet accepted by the Channel Swimming Association—while Miss Gertrude Ederle, of New York, the first woman to cross, took 14 hrs. 36 mins. for her feat, which was authenticated by the association.
But there is still a very fine record waiting to be broken and that is the one of 21 hrs. 45 mins. put up by the late Captain Webb, who crossed from Dover to Calais in August, 1875. Although over half a century has elapsed, that record remains unchallenged.
In fact, the swim from England to France has only been accomplished by two men, Burgess, an Englishman, in 1911, who took 22 hrs. 35 mins., and H. Sullivan, an American, twelve years later, in 26 hrs. 30 mins.

GOLD CUP OFFERED
When will the swim from England to France be attempted again? The Dover Corporation has offered a gold challenge cup for the first swimmer to cross that route, but the question has often been raised: Can it be done under twenty hours? Conditions are by no means the same as on the journey from Cape Gris Nez to Dover.
Aspirants have started from practically every yard of beach east and west of Dover. All the so-called experts have expressed their opinions as to the course, but it remained to Burgess to work out the course from England as a result of his many attempts, and it was Burgess who found the "Ederle" course from France.
Attempts previously had been made from the rocks under Cape Gris Nez Lighthouse. Three years ago, when Madame Sion started from that position, she was to have been accompanied by Burgess, but Burgess was missing, and it was several hours afterwards that the people on the tug Alamea, accompanying the Frenchwoman, noticed someone swimming towards the tug from an easterly direction.
A boat was put out and that someone was discovered to be Burgess. All thought that Burgess had overslept. But no, "Bill" had a scheme of testing the tides he wished to work out, and he took advantage of the presence of the tug to put his scheme into practice.
TRIES OUT CURRENT
Judging his time, he entered the sea from the beach at Cape Gris Nez, at a spot about a mile from the usual starting place. He caught the current he had been working out, and as a result of his deliberations he decided to start the next swimmer from the beach at the Cape.
Soon success was assured, and this has been practically the same course followed by the swimmers who crossed to Dover in good time.
But Burgess has another course, if not two, up his sleeve for the swims from Dover.
Now, what is Burgess' mystery course? To a newspaperman he recently said: "If I gave out the course I should steer from England to France they would say I was mad. I count on seventeen hours, perhaps less, and landing at—"
"I have not tested it, so it is nothing but a theory, and I steer the opposite way to what would be expected the first three swims. I do not start from near Dover, but pass southwest of the Ridge and the Varne. I would not like to say more myself, but you mean work out something interesting if you use a tide book and work backwards."

The Department of Public Works has awarded the contract for this undertaking, the lowest bid tender being given the contract. The price submitted was $2,000. The other tenders for the work were as follows: Thomas Carson, of Vancouver, $2,900; McLean & Billings, $3,488; Pacific Engineers, Ltd., $3,518; A. Rogers Construction Co., $3,585; E. D. Shockey, $3,672.

Cariboo Show—There has been a very large increase in the number of visitors to the Cariboo district, but while the showing of grades in the Fall Fair were of good quality, in the opinion of Mr. C. E. Whitney, Griffiths, of the Sheep Promotion Committee of British Columbia, the quality of the purebred sires introduced to the show was not up to the standard. The transportation difficulties which are responsible in large part for this fact, it is the intention of the Sheep Promotion Committee to press forward a scheme in the near future, which is to be placed before the Government to correct this problem. Mr. Whitney-Griffiths has now returned home.

GLASGOW, Scot., Oct. 6.—Eldest and youngest children in the family constellation tend to be both blessed and cursed, declared Dr. H. C. Gillespie, of London, at the psychology section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Among the eldest children the ratio of chance is three to one compared with intermediate members of the family, and among the youngest children two to one. In the case of the eldest and youngest children, the tendency to become idiots and criminals, particularly the latter.

SCIENCE APPLIED TO LIVESTOCK RAISING

Haphazard Methods of Acquiring Necessary Feed Means Ultimate Failure

Justification for the existence of any manufacturing industry rests upon the assumption that the product of that industry will continue over an indefinite period of years, to meet with public demand. With this in mind, the manufacturer lays down and follows a production programme that will enable him to maintain a steady supply of his product to the market. He buys his raw materials when they are most cheaply available; he holds his costs down to a level which will afford him a margin of profit under conditions of normal market demand. He takes the ups and downs of the market in the belief that the business is profitable over a long period; if there is a slump, he is not discouraged, but he continues to exist. During a period of slack demand and low price levels for his product, he cannot afford to switch his production to some other product for which his plant, equipment, and manufacturing experience are unsuited. Furthermore, he knows that to hold his market for a more profitable future, he must keep his product before the public in steady supply.

APPLY TO LIVESTOCK

These principles of manufacture apply with equal validity to the livestock industry. Because they do apply, the successful livestock producer, like the successful manufacturer, should have a definite conception of his business as a manufacturing concern, for which he should plan as to which other production interests of his farm become subsidiary. The livestock producer is engaged in the manufacture of certain raw materials—grains, fodder, and concentrates—to meat. In this country the average feeder of livestock grows the bulk of his raw materials, securing them at cost of production on the farm. Many manufacturing industries today are producing their raw materials; but they do not make possible that continuity of supply which is the foundation for a permanently established livestock business under modern conditions of keen competition for consuming markets. A letter of the industrial and development council of the Canadian Meat Packers.

The local motor club was having its annual dinner, and one of the members said to a waiter: "I'm almost certain I've run across your name some time or other."
"No, sir, it's always been like this," was the reply.
Tourist: What's the matter, my man? You look dejected.
Georgia Cracker: Times is terrible. Here I spent two years learning to read and now comes these talkin' pictures and it ain't necessary.
Miss Bute (meeting Jack Spooner): "I'm on my way to buy a new dress. What shade would you like to see me in?"
Jack Spooner: "In the shade of the old apple tree."

CANADIANS LACKING

That many Canadian livestock producers still lack this perception of their business as a permanent manufacturing concern, organized and managed with certain well defined objects in view, is shown by situations such as that which has obtained during the past six months. Prices of feed grains rose steadily following the Fall of 1927. Feed prices also moved steadily upward throughout the same period; but the advantage of this has been lost to feeders whose feed requirements were not filled in the Fall, when grain was procurable at a price which would have made later feeding operations show a fair margin of profit. Comparison of early Winter and Spring hog prices in Canada this year show a rise of about $1.75 per hundred pounds. During the period from harvest to late Spring, the price of feed grains rose about 39 cents per hundred pounds. On the basis of 4.5 lbs. of grain to make a pound of gain in the live weight of the hog, this would mean a rise of $1.75 in the cost of feed necessary for each 100 pounds of live weight. The advantage of raising hog prices would be wiped out by the rise in feed prices for the feeder who had to buy grain and mill feeds through the Winter and Spring.

MUCH FEED EXPORTED

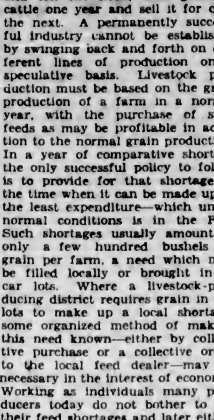

In every normal harvest season, and even in the leaner years, a large volume of feed grains and mill feeds are exported from this country. This season, when many feeders have been feeling the pinch of inadequate feed supplies, Canada exported during the months of October, November and December, 23,342 tons of oats, 293,316 tons of barley and 50,591 tons of mill feeds, with an additional large quantity of screenings.
It would obviously be sound economy to make up the requirements of a livestock farm at harvest time; the gain would not be great, perhaps, in a year of good harvest, but it would be an invaluable insurance against such periods of high feed prices as that of the past Winter and Spring. Such unfortunate features of these periods of temporary high feed prices as sacrifice of breeding stock, and the marketing of underfinished— and hence unprofitably finished—animals would disappear if the feed requirements of each farm were filled when feed was abundant and comparatively cheap.

AN OLD METHOD

The practice of setting grain for cash, irrespective of livestock needs, dates back to the more haphazard system of farm production that prevailed in pioneer times. Livestock was considered a sideline rather than a basic product of the farm. Today most farmers would subscribe to the proposition that livestock offer, over a period of years, the most profitable outlet for the grain and fodder crops that are produced on the farm. Those farmers, however, who are unsteady in their livestock production, fail to grasp the full significance of the livestock industry as a permanent business comparable to any other permanent business in manufacturing business. This viewpoint, when grasped

A New Length in Necklaces

Is there any woman still viewing with disdain the fashionable costume jewelry because all is not real that glitters?

So many really excellent pieces come under this nomenclature now, and at almost any price one cares to pay, that it is quite an act of folly to harbor an aversion to it.

Such strides have been made in this craft of late years under the sponsorship of some of the most fashionable couturiers that jewelry of this type are the accepted thing to add the last note of color to a costume. For the ultra-conservative, diamonds offer a delightful spot of color and genuine interest.

Many of the leading metropolitan shops are featuring perfectly lovely pendants to be worn on black silk cord, hanging in the new necklace length. These against the lustrous velvet and crepe satin of the Fall, especially when the necklace is somewhat plain or completely unadorned, are a correct jewelry note which lends additional beauty to a woman's neck.

An unusual pendant of amethyst and white crystal is this at the extreme left of the sketch, hung from a black silk cord. The amethyst is another type of white crystal and colored stone, likewise worn on a cord. There are many others such as this, of various designs and of quite fantastic and modern designs.

The actual length of the new necklaces is illustrated in the centre sketch. This has a gold metal chain with large metal links in which are set topaz crystals. Imagine this with a setting of one of the wondrous new brown velvets or satins fashioned into a skilfully simple frock.

University Women's Club to Hold Ball

Preparations are almost completed for the second ball of the season, which will be held under the auspices of the University Women's Club. Under the distinguished patronage of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss MacKenzie, who have signified their intention of being present, General and Mrs. MacNaughton, Commander and Mrs. Nelles, the Mayor and Mrs. Fendray, the Premier and Mrs. Tolmie, and Canon and Mrs. Hinchliffe, this interesting social event will take place at the Empress Hotel on Friday evening, October 19.

Special attractions will be furnished. Advanced pupils of Boris Novikoff, of the Russian School of Dancing, will appear in several beautiful numbers. As already intimated, "Boo Hoo" the bear, the mascot of Queen's University, will perform and do a selection of new tricks. College favors and novelties will be introduced, and teams from a number of universities will present features which are now, unfortunately, wrapped in mystery. A delightful evening is assured to all who come, and the suggestion is that tickets be procured at once to avoid disappointment. The sale is limited to three hundred. A popular orchestra will supply the dance music.

Beauty's Boudoir

By MARIE LA ROQUE

I am not optimistic enough to think that a woman can "will away" a double chin, but I certainly do think that with power has a great deal to do with the acquisition of a double chin in the first place. If you have made up your mind quite definitely and decided that you are not going to have a double chin—then the chances are that you won't get one. Only you must be willing to accept the fact—which many double-chinned people don't like at all—that a double chin is simply one phase of obesity. Watch the scales and don't allow yourself to take on surplus weight and your chin will take care of itself.

Of course, there are some women much more inclined to this blemish than others. Women with broad jaws and faces of rather large, bony structure, are much apt to get double chins than women with small chin bones and rather narrow jaws.

The complaint, repulsive type of woman is more apt to get a double chin than the woman of nervous temperament because she sits for many, many minutes at a time without moving her head. The nervous, alert woman moves her head much more as she talks or works, and thus prevents the accumulation of fat from settling in under her chin.

An exercise that is said to be helpful is this: Hold the head erect and then push the chin out in front as far as it will go. Then bend the head back as far as you can without actually straining the ligaments. Bring it back to the original position and then bend the chin down as far as possible toward the chest. In this position bend the head from right to left two or three times.

It is possible to buy bandage-like appliances that are said to be helpful in keeping away a double chin, but unless the folds under the chin are due to nothing but flabbiness and not to an accumulation of fat, then this would hardly be of value.

Miss Muriel Knott Is Bride Of Mr. Ronald Whittington

The Metropolitan United Church was the scene of a beautifully arranged wedding last evening at 8:30 o'clock, when Rev. Dr. W. S. Sippell united in marriage Miss Muriel Knott, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Knott, 1354 Pandora Avenue, and Mr. Ernest Ronald Whittington, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Whittington, 707 Linden Avenue. The church was thronged with friends of the bride and groom, both of whom are natives of Victoria.

The bride was escorted by a number of young friends of the bride had decorated the church most attractively with masses of autumn flowers. The altar was spanned with arches of pink chrysanthemums, Michaelmas daisies and fern, and during the ceremony the bride wore a gown of white tulle and a wide-spaced arch. Tall white tapers surmounted white colonnades, from which were suspended garlands of flowers.

BRIDE AND ATTENDANTS
To the strains of the Bridal Chorus, played by Mr. Edward Parsons, the organist, the bride entered the church with her father. She wore a radiant picture in her wedding gown of ivory chiffon velvet, fashioned in period style on very simple lines. The tight-fitting sleeveless bodice was made with a deep V neck, trimmed with a vest of cloth of silver and outlined with silver lace. The skirt, shirred at the waistline, was long and full, the neckline with deep scalloping, falling to the ankles at the back. A flat bow of narrow silver ribbon and an spray of orange blossoms made a charming finish to the gown and her only ornament was a beautiful double strand of pearls. Her embroidered net veil was arranged in cap fashion, a circle of orange blossoms across the back of her neck ending in two clusters at either side. Her shower bouquet was of Ophelia roses, lily of the valley, white heather and fern.

Miss Eleanor Haddow and Miss Eleanor Parfitt, a cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids, wearing charming period frocks of chiffon velvet. Miss Haddow choosing a soft lavender shade, while Miss Parfitt's gown was of softest rose pink. Their close-fitting Juliet collar was of silver, with long silver streamers falling over the shoulders, and they carried great sheaves of delphiniums, Michaelmas daisies, roses and fern.

Little Miss Helen Parfitt, a dainty maid of four years, was the flower girl, dressed in a frock of shirred tulle over pale pink tulle, with French flowers. She wore a wreath of flowers in her hair and carried a basket of sweethearts and mauve sweet peas.

Mr. Kenneth McConnell was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Howard Knott and Mr. Eldon Knott, brothers of the bride, and Dr. Aubrey Jones.

During the signing of the register, Miss Dorothy L. Hicks sang very beautifully "O Promise Me."

RECEPTION HELD
Following the ceremony, a reception, attended by about 280 guests, was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride and groom received in the drawing-room, standing beneath a floral arch, and were assisted by Mrs. Knott, wearing a smart gown of heavy black flat crepe, ornamented with a diamante buckle, and a black veil of felt and satin. Mrs. Whittington, mother of the groom, wore a becoming gown of blue georgette and a hat to match. Each had a corsage bouquet of roses and violets.

Supper was served in the dining-room, the table centred by a three-tiered wedding cake, surmounted with a silver vase of roses. Streamers of white tulle were suspended from the chandelier to the corners of the room, and the decorations throughout the house were very beautifully arranged by Mrs. H. C. Fairweather. Mrs. Aubrey Jones, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Lister, Mrs. D. B. Jones, Mrs. T. Kipling, Miss Dorothy Hicks, Miss Nora Staneland, Miss Elsie Smith, Miss Eve Haverstock, Miss Victoria Gardiner and Miss Babs McPadden. The many wedding gifts were displayed, among them being a silver tea service, from the employees of Moore-Whittington Company, and a silver tea tray, which was presented to the bride by the staff of the North Ward School, of which she has been a member.

The bride and groom left on the midnight boat for the Mainland and will motor to California for their honeymoon. For traveling the bride wore a charming two-piece frock of beige crepe back satin, and two-tone hat of beige and brown felt. Her wrap was a Shagmoo travel coat, trimmed with an opposum collar. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Whittington will reside in their new house, 1435 Richardson Street.

Little Church of St. Ethelburga Crowded at Memorial Service for Mrs. Hayter Reed—Women Voters Given Opportunity to Study Problems of Democracy in Lecture Course at St. Hilda's College, Oxford—Sir Nigel Playfair Opens Exhibition of Pictures

By ELIZABETH MONTIZAMBERT

The little church of St. Ethelburga was crowded to the doors yesterday morning when a few of the unnumbered friends of Mrs. Hayter Reed gathered for the memorial service conducted by the rector and his friend, Rev. Dr. Gekie-Cobb. A few prayers, a short, but very touching, address on the certainty of the continuation of life after death by the rector, who spoke most affecting of the beauty of "Kate Reed's" life; the singing of her favorite hymn, "Abide With Me," and the short service was over. Among the people present were her husband and son; her brother, Dr. Donald Armour, and Mrs. Armour; her sister, Mrs. Stewart Gordon; her daughter, Mrs. Herbert Baggallay and her daughter, Mrs. Lawford; Mrs. Bowker and her son; Mrs. Inghen and her daughter; Mr. Phillips; Mr. Archie Campbell and Sir George and Lady Perley.

YOUNG CONSERVATIVES

I have just come across one of the students who took part in the lectures arranged at St. Hilda's College, Oxford, from September 4 to 11, to give the new women voters an opportunity to study problems of democracy. She tells me that the main idea of this unusual summer school run by the National Union of Equal Citizenship (the modern name for the old Constitutional Non-Militant Suffrage party) was to try to tackle the subject of politics from a broader basis than the ordinary feminine point of view. All three parties were represented. Miss Marjorie Maxse, the brilliant young woman who is the deputy principal of the Conservative party, lectured on Conservative ideals; Mr. Walter Layton, editor of The Economist, represented Liberalism; and Mr. Pethick Lawrence talked on the ideas of Labor. Mrs. Blanco White spoke of the economic aspects of marriage and women in industry. She was in charge of munitions works during the war, and told her students the interesting fact that when the Germans lost a great many of their women's lives through overwork in the factories, they sent spies to find out how we treated our women with better results. Of course this was known and a conference held, but I believe this young girl's knowledge was kept from the Germans. One encouraging tendency of this summer school was towards the development of Parliamentary knowledge. The young girls, who were kept from the Germans. Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. Miss Collette Francis, of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn, now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought so much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Dandine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Dandine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often now."

Dandine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives long and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 25c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl. (Adv.)

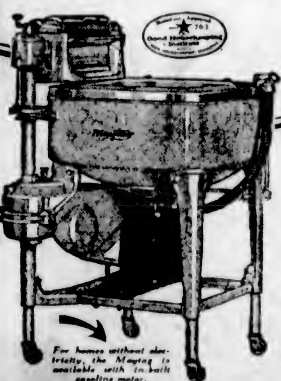

How Much Should a Washer Cost?

LIKE every other commodity, the cost of a washer is in direct ratio to the type and length of service it renders. Judged by its quality and performance in comparison with other washers, the Maytag is worth more than its cost. It enjoys advantages of experienced quantity production that is unapproached by any other washer manufacturer—a factory capacity of 2,000 washers a day.

From the cast-aluminum tub to the Roller Water Remover there is more real value, satisfaction, usefulness and economy crowded into its cost than in any other washer available.

Could there be any other reason for the preference accorded the Maytag year after year by the great majority of purchasers? The name Maytag has been recognized as a surety bond of satisfaction in Canada, for twenty-five years. In England, Australia, New Zealand, in United States, the Maytag represents the highest standard of washer construction.

he ever bought was a photograph of Marcus Stone's "Lovers." The Beaux Arts Gallery shows should not be missed because they are always interesting. In addition to the present amusing and distinctly clever collection where Kathleen Garman's charming little water color landscapes look almost old-fashioned beside the eccentricities of Messrs. Barboza, Bentley, Grant, Hodgkin and Pollard, there is a delightful room full of old maps whose makers, happily, never allowed such a trifle as accurate cartography to interfere with the making of a fascinating pattern.

LONDON STAGE

Mr. Matheson Lang is the beau ideal of a matinee idol, tall, handsome, with a good carriage, and a beautiful voice. Added to all this, he seems to know exactly what his audience wants and heard more than one young thing coming out of the Duke of York's Theatre last night say rapturously, "a marvelous play."

"Such Men Are Dangerous," is an adaptation by Ashley Dukes of Alfred Neumann's version of Russian history at the opening of last century when Count Pahlen's (Matheson Lang) assassination of Paul I (Robert Farquharson) cleared the way for the accession of the Czarevitch Alexander (Gyles Isham). The only woman in the play was Isabella Klom, looking far too innocent and ingenuitous to be really such an intrigante as Anna Baronesse Ostermann, whose beautiful clothes delighted the eyes of every woman in the audience. Robert Farquharson gave a good programme, and the Arts Theatre is producing a new play by John Van Druiten on September 26.

Theatre, for "She Stoops to Conquer" is on the same high level as the many predecessors on which it has been based. Miss Marie Ney, as Kate Hardcastle, has, perhaps, profited from Edith Evans' performance in the Lyric Theatre, in a way that must rejoice the heart of the few who maintain that good work will always find appreciation.

Canadians are taking a more prominent part in English theatrical affairs every year. The recent plans of that well-known producer, Mr. Basil Dean, for reviving "The Gondoliers" at St. Martin's Theatre involve the engagement of Raymond Massey as Lewis Dodd, and Frances Doble as Florence. Miss Jean Forbes Robertson's "The Sign of the Cross" is also being produced by the company with Edna Best, who created the role.

BRAIN UNAFFECTED BY SPINAL DISEASES

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 6.—The powers of thinking are affected only temporarily by some forms of disease, but permanent effects are caused by alcohol, various drugs, fatigue, certain bodily injuries and some diseases, said Dr. S. Dawson in a paper on "Dullness and Disease," read before the psychology section of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Tests that had been made on children showed that diseases of the nervous system, limited to the spinal cord, appeared to have no effect on intellectual performances, for the average intelligence ratio of this group was well up to normal.

In some allusion to sleeping sickness Dr. Dawson said that the most striking of the extraordinary after-effects of this disease was a change of character and emotional disposition. Children who were previously quite normal, became quarrelsome, destructive, cruel, irritable, subject to fits of anger and rage, in which they were a danger to themselves and to others. Some of them took to stealing, swearing, and lying, sometimes of a very stupid kind. In some cases the after-effect was more obviously intellectual, abnormality giving place to feebleness of mind.

Mormon Missions In Europe Growing

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Paris is interested in the presence in a beautiful country suburb here of eight Mormon missionaries, the heads of the Mormon organizations of Europe, who have opened a convention under the presidency of Dr. John A. Widsoe, of Liverpool, the British head of the European mission.

The missionaries have taken a villa at Meudon-val-Fléury, on the edge of the forest, eight miles from Paris. Their wives—one each—accompany them. Dr. Widsoe told a newspaperman that the meeting of the Mormon missionaries has been "necessitated" by the great progress the mission has made in Europe" since it was founded only a few years ago. "There are already 30,000 Mormons in Europe," he said, "and the number is rapidly increasing. Our greatest following is in Great Britain. After that come the Scandinavian states and Germany. Our first mission was started seven months ago and numbers only 600. "Our greatest problem at the moment is that of building up permanent Mormon communities in different countries. It is not unusual for converts to emigrate to Utah, United States, but we have several Continental capitals, which are striving to establish our followers in these."

Dr. Widsoe, who was trained as a chemist, was formerly president of Utah University, and subsequently returned to Liverpool as head of the mission to Europe.

Eskimos Afraid To Whip Forefathers

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The maxim, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," is not accepted among the Eskimos of Greenland, William Thalitzer, of the Royal Danish Academy of Science, told the International Congress of Scientists at a meeting here. Because they believe their children should never punish themselves, the Eskimos never whip their children, he said, and would never think of spanking them. The Danish scientists live so closely together, he explained, "that they have developed an elaborate amenity of address in order to eliminate friction among themselves." Furthermore, he pointed out, the Arctic dwellers are the most polite people in the world.

Referred to a three-year study of the religious practices of the Eskimos, made nearly two hundred years ago by Russian anthropologists, were placed before the meeting. Similarities in the green Eskimos and certain Asiatic tribes are said to bear out the theories of migration from Asia to North America.

LEAN PORK TREND IN U.S.

while the actual production of swine in the United States continues to follow along traditional lines, with a large proportion of animals carrying a load of fat, those who are leaders in the industry are placing an increasing emphasis on the advantages of the lean type. Representatives of the U.S. National Swine Growers' Association and the Institute of American Meat Packers met recently to discuss the kinds and types of hogs suitable to both producer and consumer and to formulate a statement of ideal type which might be of assistance to swine growers. The following is from the statement issued:

"It is obviously wasteful to the meat producing industry to raise an animal which does not fully meet the market demand. Lean meat is the trend, but approximately 20 per cent of the weight of American swine goes to produce lard. In the face of the trend for leaner cuts, this creates an animal fat surplus which is difficult to merchandise. This difficulty is greatly increased by the continued development of the vegetable fat and lard industries.

"Cattle and sheep producers have changed their types of market animals to the carcasses will provide a large and quality of meat in greatest demand in the trade. The hog producer has paid less attention to the kind of hog he marketed. It is therefore important that the breeder of purebred swine consider carefully the type of hog that will produce a firm finish at lighter weights. Beef cattle and sheep growers have had to face the same problem in their own class of livestock. As a result eighty per cent of live sheep received at the principal United States markets are lambs. These lambs generally weigh under ninety pounds and the majority of them weigh from seventy to eighty-five pounds. It is easy for the lamb producer to attain the greater weights, but the consumer will not buy the heavier cuts. Beef cattle men are increasing the proportion of baby beef each year as a result of the same economic influences. The United States hog trade has resented the situation where it must face and solve the same problem."

Magna Charta Grant Will Be Celebrated

BURY ST. EDMUNDS, Eng., Oct. 6.—Bury St. Edmunds is to celebrate the grant of Magna Charta on October 9, the celebrations being held in conjunction with the completion of the first part of the work on the ruins of the Abbey of St. Edmund, which has been undertaken by the corporation in association with the Office of Works. It was at the high altar of the Abbey that the barons in 1214 pledged themselves to secure the charter from King John, and the site is marked by a suitable tablet on which

"BARBERRY BUSH"

One Girl's Marriage Problems
By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"I don't say she refused him—exactly. But I know that he had a terrible case on her—everyone knew that. You'll understand it when you know her better, Marianne. Barbara Altherton isn't a bit mercenary, really."

"I don't see anything so remarkable about this Barbara Altherton. You and I'll get together, Inez, and give some parties, and we'll see what we can do!" she finished, on a significant note.

"I'd love it!" Inez consented, excited.

"You'd like to have me marry your friend Link some day, and settle down here for life, wouldn't you?" Marianne asked.

"It would be piles of fun! But I thought you were more taken with Barry?"

"Barry? He's the sheik. He's lovely," Marianne said, "but I don't imagine myself marrying him!"

Inez fell into a dream in which she, Inez, was given the sweet task of consoling Barry for Marianne's heartlessness. She heard herself saying: "Some day you'll care for someone else, Barry, and love will be all the deeper and truer because of this blow."

"What did you say?" she asked her cousin, rousing.

"Has this Barry du Spain any family?"

"None—only himself."

"And the other—the Mackenzie boy?"

"He has a father and a sister at home, and a married sister, Lucy Bernard. Marianne—?" Inez said, struck by a sudden thought, and stopped. "Marianne, if you really should fall in love with either of them, would you tell him?"

Marianne's expression clouded a little, and she flushed.

"Would I what?"

"Would you tell him? You know about—"

"Oh," said Marianne, then, with a proud smile. "I might, and I might not! It would all depend upon how much—how much he cared for me!"

Inez said nothing. The surety of it, the insolent, easy assurance, quite took away her breath.

"Real men," said Marianne, "don't like stand-offish girls, and the proof of it is that the popular boys are the ones who are not blue-nosed. This Mackenzie boy strikes me as just like all the rest, and—now that I come to think of it—I'll bet he was talking about this very Altherton girl, when he said, at dinner tonight, that he thought there were lots of girls, nowadays, who were as particular as their mothers had been. He got quite red in the face about it. I said, 'Marianne, I was afraid he was trying his art on the wrong girl, because I didn't know any girl, in these days, who wouldn't let a boy kiss her if she liked him well enough.'"

She paused, thinking. Then she flung herself back in the pillows, yawning, and stretched a slim hand for her watch, on the little table beside the bed.

"Half-past one!" she said. "Good-night, Inez. Ask Aunt Madge to let me sleep in the morning. I'm sunk. And don't worry about Mr. Mackenzie. I've got his number. He'll not give me any trouble. I'm no prude!"

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

SCURVY AND RICKETS

Scurvy and rickets are disorders frequently found in babies and children that lead to serious defects in their growth. Both of these diseases seem to be caused by an unbalanced diet.

Scurvy is caused by a lack of ascorbic vitamin C. As this vitamin is destroyed by heat, the disease is usually found in babies who are fed exclusively on condensed and malted milk, sterilized and boiled milk. A few cases have been found where pasteurized milk was used, and more rarely in breast fed cases.

A special form of scurvy called Barlow's Disease affects children, usually appearing between the sixth and twelfth month, and rarely after the second year. This disease causes severe pains in the child's lower limbs, and may cause a screaming when the child is touched. The limbs appear to be slightly swollen and semi-paralyzed. As the disease progresses, the symptoms spread to the upper arms, and marked changes occur in the appearance of the chest, giving the appearance of the appearance of having been shoved back toward the spinal column.

There may be a puffiness of the upper eyelids and a fluctuating temperature. These babies usually have a general bloated appearance accompanied by a clay-colored tint of the skin. This disease will never develop when the proper diet is used, and it is the doctor's duty to see that the baby is properly fed so that this disease does not occur. By changing the diet to raw certified cows' milk with alternate feedings of orange, lime or tomato juice, the babies generally respond quickly. They should be handled very carefully because of the extreme sensitivity of their flesh, and they should sleep on a very soft pillow.

RICKETS

This disease seems to be caused by a lack of fat soluble A vitamin and calcium. It is found more frequently in large cities and in the poorer districts of Europe and America, particularly among the children of the darker races. This disease rarely appears before the first year of life or after puberty. The lack of sunlight is considered the principal factor, but there usually are additional causes such as a lack of exercise, too long a nursing period, bad air, and unbalanced food.

The head gives the appearance of being larger than normal and there is usually a distinct puffiness of the face. The skin is flaccid and loose, and the joints appear enlarged; the chest is thin and the abdomen protruding; the liver and spine are enlarged.

This disease usually exists before it can be diagnosed, and the first symptoms are restlessness and digestive disturbances, as evidenced by cramps. The child is disinclined to walk. There is a profuse sweating of the head and neck, and the back of the neck of the child is usually worn off. The child sometimes appears to be plump at first, but gradually becomes puny and feeble, and the veins appear unduly blue. Emaciation develops as the disease progresses, and the spine may become curved. The teeth are usually badly formed, and the anterior fontanel of the skull is slow in closing and the bones are soft. Severe rickets interferes seriously with the growth of the child, and may produce deformity of the skeleton.

A child suffering from this disorder should be given short sunbaths daily, and the food must be guarded carefully. No starchy food should be used, but raw milk with the cream, alternating with periods of raw egg yolk mixed with orange juice is good, also about level tablespoonful of the juice from grated carrots daily.

ANGLICAN Y.P.A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Local Council Organizes for Season With Re-Election of Officers

The annual meeting of the Victoria Local Council of the Anglican Young People's Association was held at the Memorial Hall on Thursday evening. A full representation was present from the four city branches, Christ Church Cathedral, St. Barnabas, St. John's and St. Mary's.

An election of officers for the ensuing year was held, all officers being returned by acclamation. Mr. Stanley Hawkins was re-elected president; Miss Irene Plowman was elected vice-president; Miss Phyllis Roberts, secretary; and Mr. Nugent Spinks re-elected treasurer. Miss Plowman, the office of secretary after holding it from the inception of the council two years ago, and a vote of work was tendered to her.

A discussion was held upon the various phases of the association's work, both in the district and in the branches. An invitation was received from Rev. N. E. Smith, rector of St. Barnabas, for all the branches in the city to attend evening service at the church on Sunday, October 28. This was cordially accepted, and it was decided that all branches meet outside the church at 7:45 p.m., proceeding inside immediately afterwards.

The Local Council was organized two years ago on the occasion of the visit of the Dominion Vice-President, for the purpose of stimulating the work of the branches on the lines laid down in the association's manual and to foster friendship and co-operation between them. Since that time the council has functioned continuously and with good results, attributable in no small degree to the energy of Mr. Hawkins, who has held the office of president since its inception.

Action Taken on Plan to Harness Fundy Bay Tide

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—The project for harnessing the tides in the Bay of Fundy has moved a step forward with the announcement in the current issue of The Canada Gazette that the Canadian Dexter Cooper Company has deposited with the various public authorities as required under the Navigable Waters Act, a description of the site and the plans of a dam, locks and gates forming a part of a power development proposed to be built in Passamaquoddy Bay, at Little, N.B.

The projected dam is to be constructed so as to run by "certain lands" in Little Passage, Little Leite Passage and Doyle Passage to Deer Island, and from Deer Island to the international boundary between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America.

The notice declares that after the expiration of one month from the date of publication, the company will apply to the Minister of Public Works for approval of the site and plans and for permission to construct the dam, locks and gates and carry on the development of power.

GET MORE dirt per minute

This Housecleaning Time

WHY spend your time, your strength in slow, laborious housecleaning?

There's an easier way to clean house—a faster way—a more thorough way.

With The Hoover you get more dirt per minute than with any other cleaner.

Your rugs and carpets are made clean, not only on the surface, but all the way through. "Positive Agitation" gets the deeply-embedded grit which ordinary vacuum cleaning fails to remove. And because it gets this embedded dirt, it makes unnecessary the tearing up of rugs and carpets, the outdoor beating.

As for the dusting tools, they go everywhere, get all the dust from fur.

nishings. Why not have a demonstration of The Hoover before you begin housecleaning? There's no obligation. You can buy The Hoover complete with dusting tools and motor-driven floor polisher for only $6.25 down, the balance payable in easy monthly amounts. Note: the new popular-priced Hoover also has "Positive Agitation."

Stylish Models and Fabrics for Women

Two Fabrics Applied in New Ways

JUST how the couturier has manoeuvred to keep alive our interest in the feminine movement instituted with the New Year is reflected in the models selected here. The flare, the side drape and ruffled or circular tunic might have lost their charm following in the familiar and well-worn paths. Combination of two fabrics is the keynote which insinuates intrigue into the slender undulating silhouette of daytime frocks.

The alliance of two materials of high lustre, or a duo of dull and gleaming fabrics provides a very welcome variety. And when either of these themes is worked out in the entrancing new Autumn colors, effectiveness is assured. This is subtle in one tone, for instance, black, golden brown or the deeper shades, wine, green and the many blues. But with one medium, printed velvet, combinations of two colors are modish.

Every woman has made up her mind no doubt to have at least one frock of transparent velvet. This proving amazingly becoming, a second one suggests itself. Then why not a two fabric frock?

An arresting model is sketched at the extreme left, developed in satin and velvet. The long loosely adjusted blouse of a small conservatively patterned transparent velvet is trimmed with the satin of the circular flared skirt. So simple is this design that interest is focused on the fabrics themselves.

A frock to meet either the needs of business or club is the striking one worn by the figure in the centre. This is the epitome of dignity either for maid or matron. Fine tucking joins the crepe top to a self-toned velvet skirt with a graceful sweep of side drapery. Accentuating the diagonal closing is a narrow pink chiffon vestice, the last flattering touch to any one of the new colors selected.

Very youthful and very gay is the frock at the right. Long lines that might otherwise increase the height of a tall woman and cleverly broken by circular tiers falling from a moulded neckline. Bows of the crepe from which this one fabric dress is conceived are well placed for trimming and a cut-out motif runs up the sleeve from the wrist.

Today's Paris Style Cable Business Frocks of Dignity and Charm

By ALICE MAXWELL APPO
MILLINERY at Le Touquet includes black hatter's plus faced with nutria fur and Le Monnier felt with spiral insertions of silver wire. Also many felt berets are in evidence.
Sports colors are blues, greens and yellow. But there is no white. At the Casino at Le Touquet evening dresses are prominent in black lace or tulle or chiffon, as well as some in gregre lace.
Bright velvet evening wraps are emphasized. And colored satin slippers.
A new stocking makes a timely appearance, sponsored by Jane Regny, although not at all typical of sportswear. It is silk with a drop stitch polka dot in all-over design. This is in line with the pronounced dot note of the moment.
Important is the fur tailleur achieving its skirt effect by adding a flounce of fur to the fabric dress. When the jacket is worn it suggests a fur two-piece.

The Individual Paris Hat

MILADY faces the world in general in a smart manner, becoming this year, judging by the hats reaching these shores from Parisian ateliers.

Well might one exclaim that hats certainly are different this season.

Both Alphonse and Agnes have designed a great number of hats with the definite intention that they be placed low in back and high on the forehead.

Illustrating this new tendency is the baker tam of black felt by Alphonse (sketched), clearly showing the accepted angle at which you may wear your little new cap, provided it is not alarmingly unbecoming. To relieve the severity of the exposed brow is a nest of satin bows flowing in the neckline.

Irregular brimlines may prove much easier for Mrs. Majority to wear. A Reboux model quite typical of the Autumn silhouette is shown, the brim cut up in the centre front to reveal a great deal of the forehead and drooping at the sides in long earlike sections.

Agnes combines a black solet crown with an irregular brim of blue solet in another hat pictured, the brim nicely adjustable by means of a slanted band.

Dark red felt with down-turned brim is an Alphonse version, wearing a cuff-like portion in place of a band.

Perf is the word to describe the pointed outline Agnes has evolved from solet. The pressed motif of the crown is repeated around the edge of the brim.

Hats New York Is Wearing

THE hats the New York woman wears in a smart manner, exclusive to be confined within the boundaries of descriptive words somehow invest her with singularly metropolitan air. It may be an expensive importation that graces her head, or a domestic adaptation. But the effect is fascinating to the eye.

For exerts an influence in millinery media with a very pleasing wintry charm, achieving a soft outline becoming to the majority of facial contours.

Fox felt is used for the copy of a clever Reboux model worn by the lady at the upper left of the sketch. A smooth lustrous finish to this body greatly enhances its appearance. Tucked at one side of the crown is one of those entrancing little fur-trimmed coats, which, if you have enjoyed a recent saunter along the Avenue, you will have noted in numbers.

Youthful but not ingenuis is the model worn by the woman at the upper right of the sketch. This is a fascinating little off-the-face shape designed by Patou of fine solet with motifs of overlapping scallops characterizing the brim.

And if you have ever longed for the regal grandeur of Queen of Sheba or one of those other beautiful and powerful feminine creatures of the past, a hat like the model at the lower left may do the trick. From the mirror of fashion we see many reflections of this simple crown with the ear-tabs.

Ideal for wear with the fur or heavily fur-trimmed coat is the toque of solet. A triangular motif of gold stitching replaces the severe front by an enticing glint, and a softly draped bow breaks the sharp outlines.

Costume Jewelry That Is Correct

THE fitness of things decides that a costume is as smart as its least smart accessory. A heterogeneous collection of success of the entire ensemble. Diamonds do not flash suitably from the sports frock nor does the jewelry detract visibly from the evening necklace look complacent when worn with a daytime costume.

New bracelets of wood set in pill from Rocco and another version of wood combined with metal from Lelong are enticingly displayed in the shops. These are destined to complete the town costume of woolen material or that of spectator sports gear.

Afternoon wear suggests a bracelet after the manner of one sponsored by Louisboulangier metal links alternating with large and small crystal rondels. A harmonizing necklace shows rondels in two sizes ending in a large crystal ball, and this, be it known, is a Lelong inspiration.

Scintillating twisted ropes of rhinestones in choker form or long necklaces in single or double strands, as well as matching bracelets, are Vionnet's suggestion for evening. Necklaces shaped in a silver rope for the V-neck and a choker of frosted silver and crystal for the round neckline.

New Couturier Jewelry

The dainty little seed pearl, when combined with multiple links of silver, makes a handsome choker, having a different air from the usual glass or metal styles. Combining wood and metal is an important note in new costume jewelry. One necklace of gilt metal has inlays of wood.

Antelope Bags in Favor

All manner of shapes are seen in the Fall antelope bags, either severely plain or with trimming of contrast. Satin is used in bands to trim an octagonal model. Others are striking with appliques of reptilian leathers with pipings of silver.

Passenger—What has become of my clothes? I put them in that little closet with the glass door to it. Steward—Pardon me, but that is not a closet—it's the porthole.

WHERE business is concerned the effort before us is to find a frock allying serviceability and a style not too distractingly feminine. In the abandonment of the mode to frills and tulle, uneven hemlines and frivolous treatments of altogether demured fabrics the business woman discovers she must discard one alluring dress after another before she comes upon just the right type.

The frock, then, with a serious mien and yet a-tiptoe in style value, is the semi-tailored model of crepe satin. But, how many of us in search of this fancied simple tailored dress have concluded it must be the conjury of our imagination. Discouragement so often ensues. Luckily this season the modiste has not forgotten those on business bent.

Crepe satin dresses not too ornate for morning hours, yet which retain their chic after the clock strikes five, are finding their way into the shops fresh from the hands of the designers. Of such are these models illustrated, conservatively pleated and with soft touches of color and decoration to slightly enliven the austerity of the workaday world.

The trimness of the good looking two-piece dress at the left of the group is relieved by the application of single bows lined with a contrasting shade. These furnish the sole trimming and color note to the severely plain little overblouse showing a surprise closing and tailored sleeves.

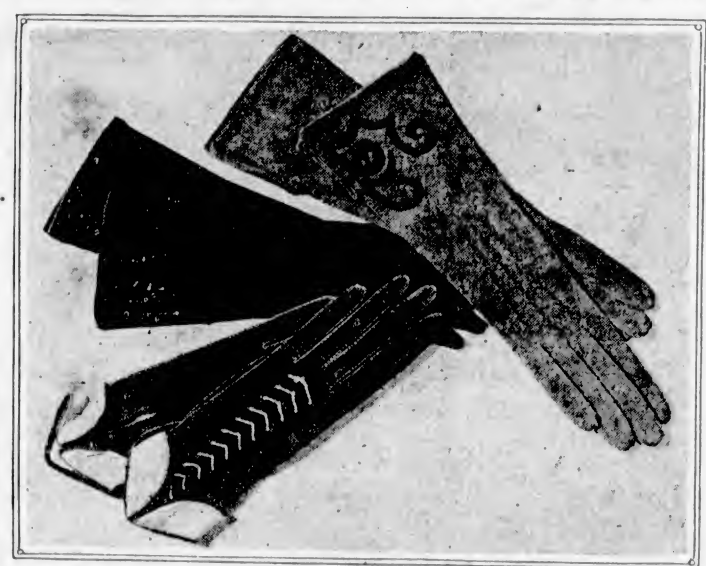

All around skirt pleating in satin is a factor not to be feared by the business woman who must suit a great part of the day. Flat pleats in this material retain their original position with a surprising firmness disconcertingly foreign to silk of the crepe de Chine and georgette families.

If yours is the personality enhanced by the slightly sophisticated very modernized design worn by the centre figure will be agreeably smart. The pleated skirt of the lustrous side of the satin is accented by a blouse of the reverse and dull side, given emphasis by diagonal appliques of the shiny finish. Tiny tucks add the necessary fullness at the shoulder line and a single large flower is worn for contrast or color blend.

When the dress itself is almost rigidly severe a colorful motif may be excused by the most critical. An applique design concentrates the color contrast at one side of the frock at the right of the group, calling attention to the discreet flare of the skirt. Fancy buttons lend a spot of brilliance to neckline and cuff.

Smart Examples of New Autumn Gloves

GLOVES have a distressing habit of wearing unduly long when they are of excellent material. Or they are too short-lived when the fabric is not so reliable. Accidents are prone to happen in all glove families. And wearables from past seasons are in a way something like step-children. So, after all, gloves are an uncertain quantity among wardrobe items. The only solution is to calmly accept the situation as it presents itself and glove-it as you go.

Accessories harken one to the other for hints as to just what each and every one is taking up as the smartest fad of the day. Since the shoe world has gone in heavily for suedes, gloves have followed suit. So soft, so flexible and so quickly donned are they that everyone likes them.

The first thing you will note from these three gloves illustrated is the fact that cuffs are deep fitting well above the wrist. The centre pair, of dark brown suede in slip-on style, is slashed at the side and adorned with a corner decoration of cre python in iridescent bronze. Another pair of pull-overs is shown at the left. If you look well you will see that they, too, are slashed at the side and have an applique design of blue crepe leather to accent the glove color of beige suede. Blue and beige are combined in the crocodile backs. Unusual gloves are shown at the right. Of blue suede, they have pointed turn-down cuffs of white kid, and the backs glister with metal eyelets for the white cord lacing.

The Knee-Length Nightrobe

A DISCREPANCY between the short length of the negligee and the long hemline of the nightrobe has been increasing dissatisfaction among women favoring this type of night garment over the sleeping pajamas. At last the shortened gown has arrived to gladden the hearts of those fastidious as to the fashions of their intimate apparel.

By way of making up in yardage what it now lacks in length the smart nightrobe frequently has a scarfed neckline. This is not alone an attractive style but possesses an element of the practical, furnishing protection to delicate throats from chill night breezes. Another delightful feature of the scarf is that it may serve in its amplitude as a charming jacket effect, when the lady-minded yield to the pleasures of breakfast in bed.

The scarf gives the designer free play for extensive decoration in the way of delicate laces and whimsical sleeve suggestions. Possibly it portends the return of the long sleeve as an actual fashion. A few models with the full length sleeve have appeared in tailored nightrobes. In the fragile seeming fabrics from which lingerie is now designed, the long sleeve is unique.

TAKING the fashion world by storm, rayon fabrics are creating an intense interest in novelists of weave, texture and color. Both satins and velvets are receiving considerable approbation. The very sheer velvets we have seen other seasons are popular, but the newest note is a velvet with an uneven nap on a fall background. Shades are soft and mysterious for this reason, and for a frock of elegance this material will have a wide appeal.

Satin woven with a rayon thread produces a higher lustre, and both foreign and domestic weaves in a variety of sophisticated colors are lovely to behold. Metal cloths reach a new mark in practicability. One fabric being featured is of eighteen-carat gold taffeta with the gold blown on. This will not tarnish.

Sheer Wool Frocks for Chic

Ideal for September and early October days not chilly enough to don a heavy coat, is the frock of light weight woolen. Sheer weaves enjoy unusual emphasis this Fall and many are the patterns designed for these materials. No Autumn wardrobe will be complete without at least one such tailored dress.

Worsted with contrasting and deeper toned borders, printed jersey, crepe, basket weave and sheer wool crepes all are very appealing.

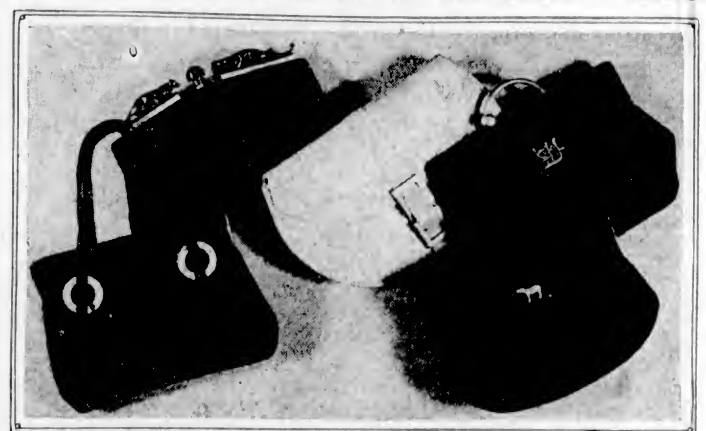

Diagonal Lines Persist

FASHION becomes a trifle rakish, for things afloat the eye are discernible in many aspects of the mode. Woolen weaves attest their late arrival by appearing with diagonal strippings.

SUITS OF VELVETEN MODISH

Among the alluring velveteen suits being displayed is an extremely clever model of wine red with a scarf collar and a slip-on of pink wool.

The Underarm Pouch in Its Latest Guise

SUPPLENESS and diversity of fastenings are outstanding in under-arm handbags. Frequently these roomy reticules are frameless, which fact assists one in getting easily at the concealed pockets. This supple feature is as important as the bag as it has come to be in millinery, and frameless antelope pouches have imitated the soft felt hat in that they may be rolled up in one's hand without injury.

Pastelings express every fancy of the bag designer's art and vary all the way from buckled straps to the patent clasp and the zipper closing. Just as the black and brown dominate the spectrum in garment fashions, so, too, do these two colors take first place in bags, antelope and calf-skin dividing honors and the latter offering possibilities in novelties.

Imports always draw a breath of interest because there is ever a new shape and ornamentation. A Carver bag sponsored by Worth at his opening is the smart swaggy type at the lower left of the illustration, fashioned of antelope with large crystal rings.

Above it is an underarm pouch of antelope with a knob and two leopards decorating the frame.

These are of crystal, a new composition in colors imitating jade and carnelian.

Calfskin in a frameless version forms the centre bag from Patou with a metal buckle for fastening metal ball and wicket mark the closing of the upper pouch shown, designed of antelope with a well-tailored yoke treatment. Vionnet adds a simulated monogram to repeat the metal note of the fastening. A marcesite animal ornament, the tab of the last antelope underarm pouch in the group pictured. This has a practical composition frame.

The Triangle Lamp

A very delightful version of the modern lamp is one composed of triangular slabs of pale green and alternating smaller slabs of nickel, through which gleams a lamp from the interior. The glow of the lamp is very beautifully shed in a soft greenish-white that is most restful to the eye.

New Notes in Blouses

SLEEVES cut in one with the shoulder section and modeled after the bishop sleeve, lend distinction in the realm of the blouse. These give a softened shoulder line that is particularly wearable for the excessively slender figure whose sharp outlines are only the more emphasized by the usual sewed-in sleeve.

Skilful cutting allows the new sleeve to fit well up under the arm without the customary pull when a coat is donned. Tapering down the arm to a closely fitted wrist, this sleeve is especially graceful. A degree of art has gone into the designing of the season's blouses. From a wealth of new fabric materials and velvets, luxurious weaves have been chosen for the chic models of the Fall.

Seen in the Big City Shops

PEARLS AND CRYSTALS VIE. It is more than hinted that pearls are gaining in style prestige. Colored pearls in strands shading from dark at the front to light at the back offer a variation. Crystal jewelry both white and colored seems still to be of significance. And twisted ropes further the importance already attained by the twisted necklace.

STIFF VELVET FINDS FAVOR

Evening dresses of black stiff velvet are trimmed with brilliant pearls. Ropes of the latter outline the back of the décolletage in a dress from Worth.

RABBIT WITH A NEW NAME

Lapin, otherwise known as the downy rabbit, is sponsored for sports coats by several of the leading shops. This fur is seen in red-dish brown, beige and grey.

MOTORING WRAPS

A full length coat with notched revers and fashioned or clipped lamb is attractive and smart in sports models designed for motor-ing.

SLATE BLUE OMINIPRESENT. Artistic blue or slate, is noticeable to a great extent. Various articles of dress are shown in this rather different color, which may be worn only by the minority. Lelong's vanilla is a lovely shade having a purple cast.

LYNX AND BADGER NOTED

Shawl collars of lynx and badger are numerous. The standing double collar of badger fur that is tied in front and the longer-at-one-side flaring collar lend interest to new coats.

TWEEDS FOR SCHOOL

Ensembles with three-quarter jackets and the seven-eighths coat are of coarser, rougher texture to differentiate the Fall school and campus suit from the tweeds of other seasons.

THE NEW JERSEY SCARF

Striped and with cravat ends is an attractive Chanel scarf of Rodier jersey, the diagonal stripes giving a smart appearance when it is worn in a loose knot at the throat.

GREY FUR COATS

The grey fur coat is an ultra note. One of grey kimmer displayed in an up-town shop is collarless with a hooded grey scarf attached. The full length revers are faced half way down with grey silk.

Varied Activities of Women

New Evening Frocks

Uneven Hemline, New and Lovely Materials and Softer Lines Characterize the Season's Smartest Evening Gowns

There is great variety about the new evening clothes, and many are offered to the choice, each with something of its own in it to distinguish it from its neighbors, says an article in The London Times. The skirt is often the most interesting feature; while the uneven hem is accepted on principle, it is sometimes made longer in front than behind, thus reversing the fashion of last season, while there are also circular skirts where the broken line is obtained by petal-shaped panels; others have short trains made of two separate panels at the back and a short front. Altogether the variety is refreshing.

CHIFFON AND VELVET
Materials, too, are manufactured in new ways, and this adds to the distinction of many of the season's models. A red chenille lace frock is an instance of a new material; in its texture is velvety, and the note of velvet is emphasized by the grandmother's bow which is placed at the waistline behind and bordered with the same velvet. A net flower with chenille spots is on one shoulder, and the drift of the lace gives the uneven hem a peculiar lightness.

DIAPHANOUS MATERIALS
Of more there are many draped

frocks with a movement to the side. A new brocade nylon resembling embossed work and very light is used for draped frocks of simple line. Chiffon and georgette make other frocks. In white georgette there is an interesting model which has a painted skirt; a diagonal metal thread embroidery is put on the bodice and silver fringe is set in diagonally on the skirt, which dips equally on either side. A white chiffon frock with a bodice studded with diamante has a feather skirt with the blue embroidered on and showing diamante underneath; the skirt has a double panel dip at the back and a short front; this would make a good platform dress. A demure frock of red chiffon has a nun-like fichu tying in front and deepening at the back into a rounded cape richly embroidered in gold. The skirt dips without accentuation. Evening ensembles are with matching cloaks, often of velvet. Velvet is not easy to get into, and for this reason velvet cloaks are preferred to velvet coats. An apricot ensemble has an apricot chiffon frock with the skirt finished with a ruffling of long petals and chenille embroidery; a spray of velvet and chiffon flowers is embroidered on the shoulder, where flowers are still worn, though they are now mostly embroidered or fixed on. The cloak for this ensemble is of double velvet and so brings out the delicacy of the dress underneath.

Brocade nylon ensembles will be worn with coats lined with velvet, or cloaks with high fur collars and big fancy fur-trimmed sleeves. They often follow the unevenness of the skirts by dipping at the back. Wraps specially made for dresses may be a source of expense, but they seem a necessary corollary to unevenness.

Tourist Travel to N.B. Is Increasing

FREDERICTON, N.B., Oct. 6.—Tourist travel to New Brunswick in the 1928 season shows a substantial increase of more than 30 per cent, according to statistics gathered by the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel, covering the 1928 season up to August 31. Permits issued for tourists' automobiles from the United States at Canadian customs houses at international boundary points in this province for stays of longer periods than twenty-four hours totaled 21,368 up to August 31 for the present season, as compared with 17,079 for the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 25 per cent, and it is estimated that touring parties attracted to New Brunswick from Ontario and Quebec and other Maritime Provinces this year have been twice as numerous as last year, making the gross increase in tourist travel coming to New Brunswick more than 30 per cent over last year.

Prudence Says So

Two Recipes for Crab Apples and Pears—Some Easily-Made Muffins and Two Desserts

Crab Apple Jelly

Do not peel and core the apples. Allow one pint of water to every one and a half pounds of fruit. Boil gently till they break but not enough to make a pulp. Put through a jelly bag. Measure and pour the juice into a pan, boiling it quickly for twenty minutes. Then add the sugar allowing three-quarters of a pound to every pint of juice. Boil till it jells. A little grated lemon rind added to the juice improves the flavor or you may add a leaf of scented geranium while the juice is boiling to give a delicious flavor. Remove the leaf before adding the sugar.

Pickled Nasturtium Seeds

These are an excellent substitute for French capers. Pick seeds while green, and cover with boiling brine. Let stand for twenty-four hours. Drain; boil sufficient vinegar to cover seeds, with a little whole mixed pickled in a cheese-cloth bag. Cool and pour seasoned vinegar over seeds which have been packed in small bottles. Cork and seal.

Ginger Pears

Four pounds of hard green pears, three pounds sugar, four ounces green ginger, two lemons. Pare and cut the pears into pieces. Scrape the ginger root and cut into very small pieces, soak it in the lemon juice. (Lemon rind to be grated and added to the pears and sugar.) Let stand all night, add lemon juice and ginger to other ingredients in the morning and cook all together till thick.

Puffed Rice and Date Souffle

Three eggs, one small cup of sugar, half a cup of fine cracker crumbs, half a pound of chopped dates, one teaspoon baking powder with a pinch of cream of tartar, half a teaspoon vanilla and two and a half cups of puffed rice. Crisp the puffed rice gently in the melted butter. Beat the egg yolks and add to them sugar, cracker crumbs, dates, baking powder and vanilla. Fold in the stiffly-beaten whites and the puffed rice. Set pudding dish in a pan of water and bake for an hour in a slow oven.

One-Egg Muffins

One and three-quarters cups flour, two and a half teaspoons of baking powder, half a teaspoon salt, one and a half teaspoons sugar, one egg, three quarters of a cup of milk, one and a half tablespoons melted butter. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt, add sugar. Beat egg thoroughly and add it gradually with milk to dry ingredients and beat hard. At the last moment add melted butter. Drop the batter into hot buttered gem pans and bake in a hot oven for twenty-five minutes.

Prune Souffle

Boil sixteen large prunes (dried) until very soft and put them through a strainer. Beat the whites of five eggs stiff, adding six tablespoons of sugar. Then whip in the prunes. Bake for forty minutes and serve with cream or custard.

NIGHT SCHOOL IS CUMBERLAND NEED

Principal Also Urges Teaching of Instrumental Music and Formation of Band

CUMBERLAND, Oct. 6.—At the October meeting of the Cumberland Board of School Trustees on Tuesday evening, Mr. Apps, principal of the public school, addressed the board on the possibility of starting a night school here. He pointed out that in the past an effort had been made to start such a school, but it had proved a failure because those who wished to attend could not agree on the choice of subjects to be taught. Mr. Apps also pointed out that a few years ago Cumberland had a good school band, and he hoped that instrumental music might be one of the subjects taught at night school. Mr. H. E. Murray also spoke on this subject and said that even the Department of Education in British Columbia felt this province was far behind other provinces in the study of music. He also pointed out that this study would be a good training and would prove beneficial to those wishing to study music later. Mr. McKinnon and Mr. Bannerman were appointed, with Mr. Murray, to make an effort to promote the movement and to procure some instruments for the use of the school.

Three applications for the position of substitute teacher were received. The board decided that it would not be necessary to appoint a substitute teacher and instructed the principal to call on the three applicants as required.

To Give Recital

After several seasons' absence in the Antipodes, during which they had an extensive concert tour of Australia, J. Frederick Stone, operatic tenor, and his wife, Lucile Randle Stone, have returned to this country. For the next few weeks they will be in Victoria, and have already arranged to appear in a number of public and private recitals here. Their first concert will be on Tuesday evening in the Fairfield United Church.

Baby Jacket Easy to Make

THIS pattern for a baby's sack is suitable to make of fine French flannel in pink, blue or white, of outing flannel, or of pique. You can finish the edge with a scallop worked in the same or a contrasting color, or you can turn under a hem and feather-stitch it, or else bind it with ribbon.

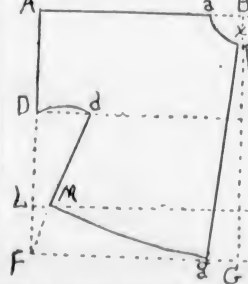

This is not for the tiniest baby, but is a suitable gift for the tiny baby as he will soon grow into it. To make the pattern you will need a piece of paper twenty inches wide and twelve inches deep. Mark the line A to C twenty inches, A to F and C to H twelve inches. From A to D and C to E is five inches, and forms the ends of the sleeves. At D and E measure in two and a half inches. Mark d and e, and draw curved lines as indicated. From d and e mark lines to F and H. At L and I, two and a half inches up from F and H, rule a line across, and mark M and N where it crosses the lines d-F and e-H. Now mark curving lines from M to K and from N to O.

The line B-G is drawn from A-C to F-H, ten inches from either end. Mark a line from B to g and from B to h, f and h are each one and a half inches from G. Don't cut these lines B-g and B-h until later. X is one and a half inches from B. Mark x on the line B-G. Measure a and b one and a half inches on each side of B and then draw the curved line a-x-b, for the neck opening.

When you cut out the material, double crosswise a piece twenty inches wide and twenty-four long and lay the pattern at A-C on the fold. Now cut out the little jacket—the lines from A-D, D-d, d-m, m-g, G-h, h-m, m-e, e-E, E-c, and c-x-b. Now the back section, of course, is not cut from g-B and B-h. Those slanting lines are for the fronts. So just cut these slanting lines on the upper section.

Seam D-d-m, and E-e-m, for underarm seams. Do them either in French seams or French felts.

LOCAL CANADIAN RUGGERS LOSE OPENING GAME

Mainlanders Double Score Over U.C.T. in "Big Four" Struggle

Big Crowd Sees Local Gridders Go Down to Defeat, 12 to 6, Before Vancouver—Capitals Fight Hard, But Lack Polish

U.C.T. Victoria's entry in the "Big Four" Canadian Rugby League, went down to a 12-6 defeat yesterday afternoon in the opening fixture played at the Royal Athletic Park before a crowd of about 500. The local team played a hard game, and just failed to measure up to the more experienced pack of Mainlanders.

The score should have been 7-6, but an inevitable fumble crept into the local squad's play in the third quarter and was responsible for the visitors getting a lucky touchdown. This was one of the breaks of the game.

Victoria put up a hard fight throughout, with their more or less inexperienced team. One of their shortcomings, however, which must be overcome, was their failure to mark their men, especially on the outside. Seeing this weakness of the local pack, Vancouver was quick to take advantage, and got in some damaging end runs before they were stopped. Vancouver also had a more powerful line and smashed holes in the local formation for some large gains.

The first two quarters were evenly fought, with the rest period being gained with the Mainland crew leading a 2-1 score. All points were gained from scrums, and the Mainlanders scored a touchdown in the third and fourth periods to end their scoring, while Victoria's touchdown came shortly before the final whistle.

LOCALS LOOK GOOD
The local ironmen looked good in all departments, and with a little more polish should develop into a formidable squad, which should make them all step. Coach Ernie Cook was somewhat disappointed at the outcome, but was thoroughly satisfied with the work of his grid stars, outside of their failure to mark their opponents.

Victoria kicked off, and the local crew, with their bar-pole awarers, swept down on mase for a big gain when Horne took the Vancouver man down on his own twenty-five. This advantage was lost, however, when Seed went around on an end run and carried the ball to Victoria's twenty-five before he was stopped. After the call, in which Victoria held, Vancouver drew the first blood when Donnelly kicked for a rouge.

Victoria made a fine gain when the Mainlanders kicked the ball out, and on two successive downs made a yardage. McMillan ploughed his way through on a line plunge and Putnam did likewise. An offside call Vancouver ten yards and the ball rested on the invaders' twenty-five. McAllister was crooked and lost the ball, but he was taken down. On the first down Forbes tried to drop a goal, but the kick was blocked and Vancouver gained possession.

MAINLANDERS GAIN GROUND
Vancouver made yardage on a line plunge by Barrow and an end run by Tennant. Vancouver tried for a rouge, but Gaunt took the ball in the air and made about ten yards before he was taken down. During the scramble he lost control of the ball and Vancouver held its advantage. On an attempted line plunge Horne took his man down and Victoria gained possession. McDonald twice made yardage on line plunges, and what looked like a term-plunge in a score was thrown away when one of the outside men fumbled with only one man to beat.

Gaunt took a kick at the first of the second quarter, and the ball rested on the visitors' twenty-five, when Larry Henderson brought his quarry down with a flying tackle. Twice Victoria and Vancouver failed to make yardage on these downs and play was slowed down. In the third, however, Victoria was in a line-smashing mood and the husky forms of McDonald and Horne drew the ball slowly but surely to the Vancouver line. Forbes tried for a rouge, but one of the Vancouver backs caught the leather and made a sensational cross run for a heavy gain. On the kick of the following play Victoria gained seven yards, but lost fifteen in the next when one of the backs ran across the field instead of straight down. Putnam and McDonald made two fine runs to gain yardage, but Victoria lost possession soon after, and the ball was taken over by the Mainlanders, who brought the ball near the corner flag. Tennant failed in the drop to goal.

McDONALD GETS THROUGH
Victoria made a desperate bid in the last few minutes of the game, and their line plunging tactics were finally rewarded, when Jack McDonald hurried his bulk through for a touchdown immediately after Vancouver had been penalized ten yards for an offside. Forbes' splendid kick for the added points hit the crossbar.

Putnam, Henderson, Horne, McDonald, Forbes and McMillan played hard for the locals, while Seed, Tennant and Donnelly were the bright lights for the visitors.

Dick Wilson made a capable referee, and Tommy Lampman umpired in good style. Tiny Watson acted as head linesman and Clare McConnell and C. H. Tall as time-keeper and penalty timekeeper respectively. The teams were:

Vancouver—McRae, Matherson, Henderson, Downie, Barrow, Pogo, Marsh, Donnelly, Seed, Allward, Tennant and Boucse.

Victoria—Forbes, Owens, Johnson, Mawhood, Kinsman, Morley, McDonald, McAllister, Macmurtrei, Horne, Emery, Wightman, McMillan, Hunnington, Putnam, Newell, Gaunt, Henderson, Lennie, Pratt and De Blaquiere.

VARSITY MUCH TOO GOOD
VANCOUVER, Oct. 6.—Unleashing a powerful searing and running attack, Varsity's most promising Canadian Rugby squad smashed up the inexperienced New Westminster defence to defeat the Fraser men, 25-0 in the first "Big Four" game of the season at Athletic Park today.

The University men, fighting for their school for the first time under major sports colors, proved themselves superior to the other team. Westminster had plenty of fight, but lacked knowledge of the fundamentals of the game.

The world's bicycle sprint championships will be held in the United States in 1929 for the first time in seventeen years. The events will be held in New York.

Tommy Fielding Given Call Over Dave Lewis

Joe Bayley's Protege Easily Outpoints Local Scrapper in Slashing Battle—Pastore and Keist Fight to Draw in Semi-Wind-Up

In a slashing ten-round battle, Tommy Fielding, junior lightweight champion of Vancouver Island, was given the call over Dave Lewis, last night at the Sons of Canada Hall, in the main event of Promoter Joe Bayley's festive show. The champion won six rounds, three were even, while the fifth was Lewis' by a small margin. Lewis was unable to make the weight and as a result the title was not at stake. Fielding weighed in at 129½ and Lewis at 133½.

From the first sound of the gong the principals in the bout, one of the best seen in this part of the country for many a day, mixed furiously. Fielding, the more clever of the two, had the situation well in hand, but in Lewis he found a much more rugged opponent, and one who was willing to fight every inch of the way. Lewis took plenty of punishment, both in the infighting and in the open exchanges, but at that he put up a game battle against a man he must admit is his master.

For seven rounds, Lewis, although marked up and bleeding, the result of Fielding's blows, still fought gamely. In the eighth he took plenty of punishment and hung on consistently. In the ninth the defeated battler staged a slight comeback, and although the round went to Fielding, it was not by a wide margin. In the last round Lewis was in distress as his clever opponent hit him almost at will. Lewis clinched a number of times to avert a K.O. Fielding was working hard, landing telling blows to Lewis' face and body, while the crowd, the largest to attend a fight show for some time, was cheering the champion on to victory. As the gong sounded for the end of the last round it was a battered Dave Lewis that walked to his corner, while Fielding emerged from the fray without a mark.

KEIST, PASTORE DRAW
Danny Pastore, who only a short time ago took a decisive defeat from Tim Keist, came back in the same ring last night and fought four rounds to a draw. Pastore showed plenty of improvement since his last battle with Keist, and sent him to the canvas for the count of five in the third round. In the last round the boys fought every inch of the way and when Announcer McFarlane made known the verdict it was loudly applauded. The boys will meet again at the Tillamook Gymnasium on Oct. 20.

Jumbo Davies, was given the judges' decision over Art Manning, of New Westminster, after four rounds of mixing. In the first round the boys stood toe to toe and slugged away, much to the satisfaction of the fans. The local flash carried the fight to his opponent all the way. Manning, after the first round, did not show any desire to mix.

In the curtain raiser Charlie Bradshaw was given the call over Chris Langdon, of Swansco. The bout was fast throughout and there was plenty of heavy milling.

TOMMY FIELDING
Who gave Dave Lewis a boxing lesson last night in a ten-round headline bout at the Sons of Canada Hall, Fielding had Lewis in distress in the last round and had him hanging on continually.

first round, did not show any desire to mix.

Click Stops Crogan

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The high powered punching career of Tommy Crogan, Omaha lightweight sensation, has come to a sudden halt at the hands of Joe Glick, the "pant presser" of Brooklyn. Battling for the right to enter the ranks of the topnotchers through a meeting with Jimmy McLarnin, Glick outpunched and outboxed the Western lad to win the decision in their ten-round bout last night.

Letters to Editor

JUNIOR SOCCER PLAYERS
Sporting Editor: Dear Sir,—It has been brought to my notice that Junior players affiliated with the B.C.I.F.A. are being told that they can sign or play for a senior team at short notice. In fairness and protection to all junior players I point out that before a junior can play for a senior team the team play for his services must first approach the club he is playing for and also get the consent of the Junior Football Association. Further, any person misleading junior players in connection with the above, may be dealt with by the Junior Football Association for misconduct.

Yours Truly,
H. HADLEY,
Honorary secretary Junior Football Association for Victoria district, Victoria, October 5, 1928.

P.N.W. Open Tournament Separated From Amateur

Pros Will Play in July, While Simon-Pures Will Continue to Play in June—Changes Made in Conditions of Women's Play

SEATTLE, Oct. 6.—Separation of the Northwest Golf Association open championship from the amateur women's and class B title competition marked the association's annual business meeting here today. The open tournament is to be held around July 4, while the other tournaments are to be played, as in the past, during the latter part of June.

The Vancouver Golf and Country Club won the 1928 tournament in a spirited fight with two other Vancouver, B.C., clubs, Shaughnessy Heights and Marine Drive. The 1929 meet has already been awarded to Inglewood, Seattle.

The association recommended to its board of directors that thirty-two, instead of sixteen, players qualify for the women's championship. This would necessitate the women either starting play a day earlier than in the past or playing two eighteen-hole matches in one day.

The separation of the open from the other tournaments was the culmination of a long fight waged by the Portland clubs.

As reintroduced today by Dr. T. W. Watts, retiring president, the change

"Swing From the Hips for Real Distance"

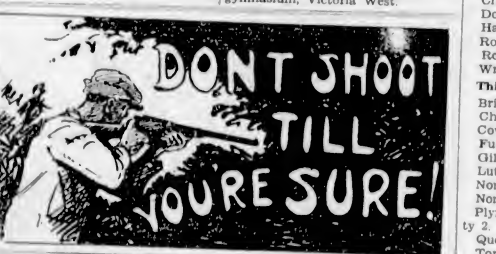

By SOL METZGER

Note the three sketches showing Johnny Farrell at the top of his drive, at contact and at finish. Study them. Then you'll have a fine idea of how this slender Irish lad whips out such long tee shots. His power comes from his hips. They glide back and then forth along the line of the blow, acting as a pivot for his shoulders, which make a complete half turn during the downswing.

Swing from the hips is Farrell's idea for distance. There is no sway to his backswing. But his hips are a hip glide. At the top Johnny keeps his weight evenly balanced on the sole of his right foot and the inside of his left, each foot doing its share toward carrying the weight.

Johnny hasn't the power to hit like the more rugged Hagen. But he drives just as far, due to the whip-like action of his shoulders, arms and wrists working from the hips. Suppleness, grace and ease of effort predominate when Johnny craves one off the tee. No golfer gets more wrist into this shot. Next—let us look at the start of the downswing.

Chelsea and Hull City, Second Division Leaders, Are Beaten — Burnley Loses to Manchester United

RANGERS KEEP SLATE CLEAN

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Principal attention in English League soccer today was focused on the Second Division, where Chelsea and Hull City, the only unbeaten teams so far this season, were compelled to lower their colors at last. Chelsea went to West Bromwich Albion and were completely routed, while Hull City was soundly trounced at White Hart Lane by Tottenham.

In the First Division, Burnley, leaders, playing at home, were beaten by Manchester United by four goals to three and must surrender their place to Derby County, who defeated Birmingham on the latter's grounds. Blackburn Rovers cup holders, came up into second place by their fine win over Huddersfield. Everton, league champions, again heightened their supporters by beating Arsenal. They are now near the top of the averages.

In the Scottish First Division, Rangers kept their slate clean from defeat by beating Third Lanark, and going to the top of the averages. Aberdeen, after a brief spell out of front, dropped back because they were beaten by Motherwell.

Celtic won the Glasgow Cup, emblematic of the soccer championship of the city, when they defeated Queens Park in the final game of the series by two goals to nil. Celtic won the cup last year. The match was played at Hampden.

John McGraw Signals for Pitch From Bench

By AL DEMAREE

(Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Manager John McGraw's weakness for pitching important games during the season and particularly World Series games from the bench, has led to many odd situations. In pitching from the bench, McGraw uses a system of signs by which he tells his pitcher what he wants pitched on each ball, such as "fast ball," "curve ball," "change of pace," or "waste ball."

Naturally there is often a difference of opinion between the pitcher and catcher as to the advisability of throwing to a batter in a pinch, a fast ball or a curve. Under these conditions the pitcher often "shakes" off catcher's signs until he gets the sign for the particular kind of ball he wants to deliver.

McGraw, in order to make sure that his own signs from the bench by the pitcher, has a personal sign to circumvent this. If the sign comes from McGraw direct, the catcher snaps his thumb after going "shake" McGraw's instructions off. This shows the pitcher that the sign comes directly from the Giant manager, and it would take a brave twirler indeed who would "shake" McGraw's instructions off.

The only pitcher I ever knew that McGraw let pitch his own game under any and every condition was the immortal Christy Mathewson.

TWO FRENCHMEN IN TENNIS FINAL

Henri Cochet Will Oppose Countryman, Christian Boususs, for Southwest Title at Los Angeles

COCHET AND DOEG CAPTURE DOUBLES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—America's hopes for turning back the stars of France in the Pacific Southwest tennis championship disappeared today when Henri Cochet, French racket ace, defeated Alan Herrington, of Hollywood, in the semi-finals, 9-7, 6-4, 6-3. Cochet will meet a fellow countryman, Christian Boususs, in the final tomorrow.

Cochet and Doeg, brilliant Santa Monica youth, won the men's doubles championship by defeating John V. Ryn, former Princeton tennis captain, and Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas, star.

The doubles title match was carried to the full five-set limit, it being made an uphill match by strenuous battling of the losers, and the scores being 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

MRS. BUNDY ADVANCES

Attention earlier in the day was devoted to the feminine competition. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, veteran racket wielder from Santa Monica, Cochet and Doeg, brilliant Santa Monica youth, won the women's singles by defeating Mrs. Chapin, of Springfield, 6-0, 6-1. Midge Gladman, University of Southern California star, will meet Mrs. Bundy in the finals tomorrow.

Helen Jacobs, of Santa Barbara, lost to Phil Neri, San Francisco, in two-set exhibition match. The scores were 6-4 and 7-5.

Jack Tibbald won from Cliff Robbins, 6-2, 6-2, to take the junior singles title today. Both are Los Angeles boys.

The final tomorrow in the mixed doubles event will bring Van Ryn and Miss Gladman against Boususs and Mrs. Harper.

Loughran Says Sluggers Seldom Last Long in Ring

Light-Heavyweight Champion Declares Clevelander Best in Long Run—Batling Nelson One Great Exception

By TOMMY LOUGHRAN

Light-Heavyweight Champion of the World (Copyright, 1928, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

When I was just a little fellow there were a number of sluggers who were very popular at the Philadelphia boxing clubs. Johnny Willets and Mickey Gannon were always in the Philadelphia clubs. How those fellows could hit!

much boxing, but when they landed on a fellow he stayed put. They were all around the lightweight limit, and in those days the little fellows were the most popular of all the classes. Young Ernie was a scientific ringman, and so were Tommy O'Toole and other featherweights. But they didn't compare as punchers with the rugged fellows I've mentioned.

Willets was a busy lad. One Thanksgiving day, before he became a real headliner about town, he booked himself for two fights on the same afternoon. He showed in the first preliminary at a big club, put an overcoat over his ring costume, hopped in a cab and drove up town to fight in the windup of a smaller one.

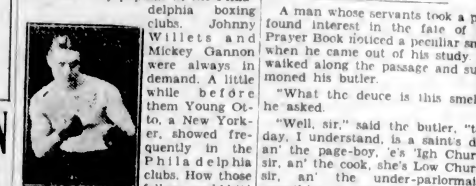

Gannon fought frequently, too. He was on the card of some club almost every week. A southerner, that fellow, and the crowds were strong for him. Otto fought some slashing fights with a butcher boy named Johnny Allen, and in one of them Allen scored one of the most surprising upsets of the day when he stopped Otto in a single round. The New Yorker got revenge in later bouts.

I notice these sluggers seldom last long. While they are putting over their wallop they are taking plenty in return, and the punishment wears them down. Willets, Gannon and Otto were good for several years, then they began to fade.

On the other hand, young Ernie fought hundreds of battles over a period of fifteen years or so, and was little the worse for wear. But then, Ernie was a great defensive boxer. Jack Britton started in preliminary bouts in Philadelphia around that time, and Britton is still a card in the ring.

The whole history of the ring bears out the fact that the clever man lasts longer and suffers little damage. Britton is the greatest example of this. He has been boxing regularly over twenty years, and can still hold his own with the toughest ones.

Batling Nelson was an exception.

in that he took more punishment than anyone in his time, yet lasted over twenty years, too. But Nelson was abnormal physically. A freak of nature.

A man whose servants took a profound interest in the fate of the Prayer Book noticed a peculiar smell when he came out of his study. He walked along the passage and summoned his butler.

"What the deuce is this smell?" he asked.

"Well, sir," said the butler, "today, I understand, is a saints' day" on the page-boy, the "High Church" sir, and the cook, she's Low Church sir, and the under-parlormaid's something in between, and the page-boy's burnin' incense, and the cook's burnin' brown paper again him for all she's worth, sir, and the rest of 'em's all burnin' anything they can lay their hands on, sir, out of sympathy with the under-parlormaid, sir."—Tit-Bits.

ELECTRIC STORM UNDER ANALYSIS

"Breaking Drop" Theory as Applied to Thunderstorms Defended by Eminent Scientist

GLASGOW, Oct. 6.—The "breaking drop" theory in connection with thunderstorms was defended by Dr. G. C. Simpson, F.R.S., during a discussion of the mechanism of thunderstorms in the section of mathematics and physical sciences of the British Association for the Advancement of Science recently.

Dr. Simpson said that in 1909 he was able to show in the laboratory that if one took a drop of water and broke it all up, the water took a positive charge of electricity where a small charge of negative electricity went into the air. The "breaking drop" theory ascribed the origin of electricity in a thunderstorm to the breaking of the raindrops, which were held up within the cloud by ascending currents. The water after breaking had a positive charge, the corresponding negative charge going into the surrounding air. The positively charged water tended to accumulate in relatively small regions of separation while the negative electricity was distributed widely throughout the cloud by the air currents.

Some of the consequences of this theory were that heavily charged rain from the centre of a storm was positively charged, while the lighter rain from a cloud, was as a whole, negatively charged; secondly, that the majority of lightning flashes started in positively charged clouds and generally from a small region of the cloud. Again, the branching of a discharge was always away from the positive, so that by looking at the branches one could always tell the region of its positive source. There could be four kinds of flash or discharge:

(1) A flash to the ground; (2) a flash starting towards the ground but not reaching it; (3) a flash starting from a positive source and going upwards towards the higher negative region; (4) a flash from the ground to the cloud.

about the polarity of clouds—that was to say on whether the positive electricity in the cloud was above the negative or vice versa. He held that the "breaking drop" theory would lead one to expect that the upper part of the cloud would hold negative electricity. Professor C. T. R. Wilson and many others had concluded that a thundercloud had positive electricity in the upper parts and negative electricity in its lower parts and this conclusion was held to disprove the "breaking drop" theory.

The observations on which this conclusion was based were measurements of the changes in field strength caused by lightning discharges. These observations he contended told us nothing about the polarity of the cloud and every observed field change would be as readily explained with a cloud of negative polarity as with one of positive polarity. Whichever view was right the lightning flashes would be the same to outward observation, and could not be differentiated. The "breaking drop" theory gave a physical explanation of the mechanism of a thunderstorm which was quantitatively and qual-

OLD MASTER BOUGHT FOR FIVE POUNDS

Painting Believed to Be a Van Dyck Discovered in London—Hung in Furniture Shop

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A shabby old picture, badly gashed and very dirty, which James O'Grady, a furniture dealer, of Haverstock Hill, N.W., bought for $25 a few months ago, has been examined by an expert who believes it to be a Van Dyck worth thousands of pounds.

The work represents the Earl of Arundel, with his eldest grandson, afterwards the fifth Duke of Norfolk. The old Earl is in steel armor and the boy is wearing a pink tunic "some months ago," said Mr. O'Grady, who is an ex-gunner of the Royal Field Artillery. "I bought the picture in an old furniture shop near St. James' and hung it in my shop covered with an old army blanket. A dealer, who called upon me, happened to pull aside the blanket, and after a hurried glance at the picture, said he wanted to buy it."

My Husband says "Try Kruschen Salts."

The best advice in the world! Her letter, published below, proves once again that "it's the little daily details that count."

"Kruschen Salts have done me a lot of good. I suffered from my kidneys and about 5 months ago I was on bed-ridden and I came home worse than before. I used Kruschen Salts and my kidneys were all right and I am a different person. I feel better from morning till night with my eyes and kidneys, but thanks to Kruschen Salts I feel well and can put on with my work without any trouble."

Original letter to the Editor.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at drug and department stores in Canada at 25¢ a bottle. A bottle contains enough to last for 4 or 5 months—good health for half-a-cent a day.

Two girls friends, who lived in adjoining parishes in the country, were chatting together.

"I understand," said the one girl, "that you are having very small congregations at your church. Is that so?"

"Yes," answered the other girl, "so small that every time our vicar says 'Dearly beloved,' we feel we are receiving a proposal."

Mrs. Bertrand Russell, wife of a philosopher and herself a social reformer of great merit, said at a fashionable dinner in New York:

"Today, as yesterday, the cult of virtue profits a girl more than the cult of vice."

Mrs. Russell smiled and added:

"It isn't what a girl does that fascinates a man. It's what she won't do."

Unjust 18-Hole Early Rounds Endanger Amateur Golf Title

Bobby Jones' Narrow Escape Probably Prevented Perkins Taking Championship to Great Britain

By BUNKER

George Von Elm, Jess Sweetser, Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet and Max Marston were put out of the National Amateur Championship on the very first day of play at Brae Burn. This fact alone should start the United States G. A. to consideration of abolishing the eighteen-hole rounds. No championship should have rounds of less than thirty-six holes.

The essential thing to do is to have sectional qualifying rounds, so that the tournament qualifying rounds can be run off in one day. This would permit doing away with the unfair eighteen-hole match rounds.

Only by the narrowest of margins did Bobby Jones escape the fate of Von Elm, Sweetser, Ouimet, Marston and Evans. Suppose, like them, he had lost? What would have happened to the championship?

It is a ten-to-one bet that Mr. Perkins, of Great Britain, today would be holding it.

There are other reasons for having sectional qualification for the National Amateur Tournament; but none is so potent as the need for dropping the eighteen-hole rounds. Now that the British actually are threatening our championship position, just as long as he wants to be.

Naturally he will want to keep on for a few more years at least, because he will be setting up records likely to stand forever. Perhaps Bobby will do a Tunnay act and turn the championship loose for other brethren to scramble for.

Of all the young fellows, Phillip Finlay looks now to be the best prospect as a future rival. But this terrific hitter will have to learn to control his shots off the tee.

A year ago Roland Mackenzie advanced to the semi-finals and seemed to be leading threat for the coming years. But when he ran up a qualifying score of 172 at Brae Burn it was apparent that he had slipped instead of gaining.

Finlay, however, is getting better. At Minneapolis in 1927 he beat Dr. Willing in the first round and three. Dr. Clarke Corkran in the second round and two, and lost to Ouimet in the third, fourth and fifth.

This year he dropped Ouimet, J. O. Ames and Harrison Johnston, and only succumbed to Bobby Jones in the semi-finals. His defeat by the champion was no worse than that of Perkins in the finals. He is young, and if he becomes as accurate at driving as Bobby Jones he will be a real menace.

LONG-HITTING DUEL

It is to be hoped that Mackenzie's slump is temporary. Such expert observers as the veteran professionals, Leo Diegel and Freddie McLeod, have expected him to reach the heights of golfing success.

It would be a spectacle to see Roland and Finlay pitted against each other in a championship battle. It is a question which is the longest hitter.

Finlay hit many a shot of 300 yards or more at Brae Burn. But this is a distance Mackenzie can make easily, too. He has consistently outdriven Leo Diegel, perhaps the longest hitter among the American pros, and Archie Compston, who has about the same rank among the Brits.

At his home club, the Columbia, Washington, D.C., Roland several times has driven to the green of the first hole. This necessitates a carry of 300 yards.

HAMILTON WINS FROM ARGOS

Toronto Oarsmen Whitewashed in Interprovincial Opener—Camp Borden Defeats Tigers in O.F.U.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—Hamilton Tigers opened the Interprovincial Union schedule in impressive style today when they whitewashed Argonauts, Toronto, 6-0. Every point of the Bengals came one at a time and five of the total were due to the good right foot of young Huck Welch, the former Delta Collegiate boy, making his debut in senior company, accounted for five rouges when his mates gave him the opportunity. Captain Bert Gibb gained the other point when in the third quarter he kicked to Chantler, who was downed for a rouge.

CAMP BORDEN BEATS TIGERS

HAMILTON, Oct. 6.—In the first game of the Ontario Rugby Union season, Camp Borden put Tigers on the short end of an 18-0 score here this afternoon. The flyers appeared much the better team, and with Dave Harding as helmsman they were never seriously threatened. Hamilton failed to score in the first quarter when the Bordenites ran up twelve points. The latter were held scoreless in the second period, but the best Tigers could do was get two points, one in the first minute of play, on a fumble, and the other in the second quarter, when Bruce grabbed Moore's fumble. The visitors scored one touch on Perry's sensational fifty-yard dash early in the third quarter.

Montreal A.A.A. fought hard in this period to pull the game out of the fire, but finally halted them. The crowd was in a frenzy as play ranged up and down the field through a scoreless quarter. Moore and Perry were sensations on the backfield, their running being the feature of the game. Lynch, Emerson, Starr and Pinney were Ottawa's best.

OTTAWA SENATORS WIN

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—Ottawa Senators won their opening Big Four Rugby game here today when they defeated Montreal A.A.A. by 10-8. It was a loosely played but hard fought struggle, with Ottawa getting the breaks.

The Senators scored two touchdowns, one in the first minute of play, on a fumble, and the other in the second quarter, when Bruce grabbed Moore's fumble. The visitors

Forced to Quit Tennis

GERALD Patterson, thirty-two-year-old Australian tennis star, and hero of many an international battle, has passed from the ranks of tennis champions because of the pressure of business. This massive, determined veteran won his first international title at Wimbledon in 1919, at his first attempt, which is a record, and again in 1922. His service has long been recognized as one of the greatest in the game, and his smash and volleying strokes are magnificent. Above is a good action picture of Patterson, while inset is a close-up of him.

Mac Smith Slips and Diegel Goes to Front

Using 316 strokes in the recent Invitation Open over the National Links at Shinnecock Hills, N.Y., Macdonald Smith slipped from first to sixth place in the race for the seasonal low medal honors. As a result, Leo Diegel popped into the lead, which Smith had held with considerable regularity for a long time back.

Johnny Farrell also took a tumble, dropping from third to fifth. In fact, almost everyone taking part in the tournament suffered, for scoring was high. Walter Hagen, Bill Mehlhorn, Starnes, Cooper and Turnesa were others who lost ground in the averages.

A few days later, however, in the Westchester Open, where scoring also was fairly high, Mehlhorn recovered to win and so regained the ground he had lost. Johnny Farrell did not play in the event, although he had a title to defend.

Roger Wolfe Kahn, Otto Kahn's brilliant son, was talking at Curtis Field about a millionaire bachelor who at the age of fifty-five had suddenly married a seventeen-year-old flapper.

"He told me the story afterwards," said Mr. Kahn. "He's very happy. It seems he'd never have noticed this girl if it hadn't been for an evening gown she wore at a Bar Harbor dance. The gown had a bodice of pale pink gauze arranged in such a way that from the waist up it suggested nudity."

"That gown gown!" the happy man said. "I thought at first she had nothing on. And that's how I came to see how very pretty she was."

"Then he laughed and wound up," "Cause and effect."

Sacramento Trims Seals Five to One in Opening Encounter of Three-Game Coast Series

SOLO SOUTHPAW STINGY WITH HITS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 6.—Getting to three Seal pitchers for eleven hits, including a home run by Dutch Hoffman in the seventh, the fast flying Sacramento Senators of the Pacific Coast League, walked away today with the first game of the crucial three-game series which will determine their right to play the San Francisco Seals for the league pennant. The score was 5 to 1.

Laurie Vinc, big Solon southpaw, was never in much trouble, allowing only six scattered hits and receiving errorless support, while the Senators were almost impartial to all Seal twirlers, making two runs off Jacobs' delivery and one off May and two off Jones.

SALT SPRING WEATHER
SALT SPRING, Oct. 6.—The weather reports for September show: Mean temperature, 56 degrees; highest, 82 degrees on the 22nd; lowest, 39 degrees on the 20th. Rain, .77 inch. Nine clear days. Fine weather, but smoky during latter part of the month.

Kansas was one of the earliest states to try prohibition. They tell a story of a Kansas City bishop who was obliged to visit a town some miles distant in his ministerial duties. He arrived in a drizzling rain, turned up his coat collar and paced the station platform, waiting for a carriage which was to convey him to the church. He noticed four suspicious-looking cases on the platform and said to the baggage man: "Shipping some eggs?"

"I'll let you into a secret," said the baggage man. "The bishop is coming down today and the clergy in getting in a little St. Louis beer for his stomach's sake."

TWO MEN WHO KEPT SHOP

FEASIBLE FOR YOU AND ME

ONCE there were two men who kept shop. Both shopkeepers were in the same mode of business, but their methods differed widely. In fact, it was only a matter of time, a short time, before one must close.

Now the other shopkeeper, he was prosperous. His store looked neat and clean, spruce, tidy and colorful, with a front that bespoke quality and service. Now this shopkeeper was a great community booster. His bid for patronage was based on selling his customers the products of his local industries first. He claimed that the industries in his locality employed men who earned wages, who spent wages, and kept others employed. His pet theory was, the more of Pat's mouse traps he sold the more Pat must make, and the more Pat would earn to buy goods from him, the wise shopkeeper. And so he succeeded and became prosperous and popular, and his philosophy and wise counsel spread rapidly.

Now, there's a moral to this story:

Every dollar paid for foreign made goods departs from your homeland never to return; but, each dollar exchanged for a B.C. product remains in British Columbia and quickly grows in value. It enriches industry, ensures employment and introduces prosperity into the homes of the workers.

NOVARRO SUPERB AS KINGLY LOVER

Star of "Forbidden Hours" at Best as Grand Monarch at Dominion

If not the greatest lover from a standpoint of quality, Louis XIV, the grand monarch of France in the latter part of the Middle Ages, was one of the greatest lovers from a standpoint of quantity.

This fact was brought to light by the research department of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, where a staff of trained research workers delved into the private affairs of the greatest king in the history of France.

The data was compiled for use in the screen play, "Forbidden Hours," which A. P. Younger wrote as a starring vehicle for Ramon Novarro, and which comes to the Dominion Theatre tomorrow.

BARTHELMESS HAS GREAT SUPPORT

Remarkable Cast of Players Support Star in "Out of the Ruins" at Capital

A cast of players with remarkable careers support Richard Barthelmess in "Out of the Ruins," the new First National starring vehicle coming to the Capital Theatre tomorrow for three days only.

Emile Chautard, who plays the role of the girl's father in this screen version of the Sir Philip Gibbs story, was at one time a prominent motion picture director. Edward Coxon, who enacts a minor role in the spectacular war scenes, was formerly a star under the Flying A banner.

Bodil Rosing, the mother of the girl, was a well-known leading woman in her native country, Norway. Rose Dione was one of the most famous stage stars of France many years ago and created many roles that are today considered classics.

Robert Frazer was himself starred several years ago, and has been leading man to many famous stars, including Pola Negri, Eugene Palette was a widely popular comedian until time changed him into a deep-dyed villain. An important minor role is played by Alexander Ikonokoff, former major-general of the Czar's Imperial Guards and holder of the Cross of St. George.

The stage attractions at the Capital for this week include Tyus and Tyus, colored comedians, who can sing and dance; Bert Bennett and his guitar, and Dorothy Lewis, well-known contralto soloist in song selections; Harold Bechtel, the singing M.C., and the Concert Orchestra will complete the fine bill of specialties which will be offered twice daily.

CALIFORNIA FIRES BURN 710,893 ACRES

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—California is closing one of the most destructive years for forest fires in a decade, with a total of 1,292 fires in national forests, and 1,261 in state forests and adjoining lands, the United States Department of Agriculture reported today.

Acres burned over this year totaled 710,893, compared with 85,560 in 1927.

In the national forests lightning caused 530 fires; smokers 360; miscellaneous causes 151; incendiaries 126; campers 88; railroads 58; brush burners 42; and lumbering operations 40. More than half of the fires in state lands were caused by smokers.

MRS. EVA BAIRD

Without hearing Mrs. Baird one cannot possibly realize the strides she has taken in her art in her two years' study in concert work in Paris. Next Tuesday evening, October 8, an opportunity will be given to hear her in recital in the Empress Hotel ballroom, when a most attractive programme will be presented. Of particular interest will be songs of several of the modern composers, possessing a most fascinating charm, full of scintillating colors, and for which Mrs. Baird's voice seems peculiarly fitted.

'SORRELL AND SON' FILM LOCALE IN COLISEUM'S FILM 'HUNGRY HUNGARY'

Mickey McBan in All-Star Cast Presenting Feature Picture This Week

An American child actor, Mickey McBan, who plays "Kit Sorrell" as a boy in Herbert Brenson's production of "Sorrell and Son," current at the Coliseum Theatre, experienced the proverbial "thrill" that comes once in a lifetime, when he went to England with the Brenson company to appear in exterior scenes.

Mickey first burst into fame when Brenson discovered him and cast him for an important role in the screen version of "Peter Pan." Ever since then, the lad had the ambition to meet Sir James Barrie, author of the immortal story. He realized that ambition during his visit to London, for Director Brenson kept his promise and brought about this meeting.

Mickey, after he returned to America with his mother, Mrs. Fred McBan, who always accompanies the child player on location, described his visit with Barrie.

"Sir James lives in a big apartment house; it's like this," and young McBan drew a plan.

"I know he is a real English gentleman because he didn't talk about himself. He showed me a message that Robert Louis Stevenson, the man who wrote 'Treasure Island' had written on a kind of bark."

In "Sorrell and Son," Mickey is a member of an all-star cast which includes H. B. Warner, Anna Q. Nilsson, Alice Joyce, Nils Astor, Carmel Myers, Mary Nolan, Norman Trevor, Louis Wolheim, Lionel Belmore, Mabelle Fairbanks, Paul McAllister and Betsy Ann Hile.

STRATFORD TROUP TOURING CANADA

Festival Company From Banks of Avon Open Transcanada Tour

The Stratford-on-Avon Festival Company reached Montreal from England and played an engagement at the Canadian metropolis over the month-end. The troupe is under the leadership of W. H. Sayer and A. D. Flower, the latter being accompanied by Mrs. Flower and Miss Flower.

The company consists of thirty-one members, of whom twenty-two are playing members. An extensive tour of Canada and the United States will keep them fully occupied until the end of next March. From Montreal the company will tour across the country to Vancouver and Victoria. They then go to San Francisco, and Los Angeles, reaching St. Louis some time next year, when they will return to Canada and play at Toronto and Montreal before returning home.

Bridges Adams director of the players, explained that the festival, he hoped, would carry people back as nearly as possible into the traditional spirit of the first production of the plays.

"I am not out to show Canada the last word in production," he said. "It is not a stunt performance. Indeed, Shakespeare may be said actually to have struggled for many years past against the successive 'last words' in production that have been spoken by this generation of producers."

"What I am out to show Canada," he continued, "is a company young in years, and younger in spirit, in which Shakespeare, I hope, will be found to live again, not through the adventitious aid of mounting and lighting but through the genuine and spontaneous agency of vigorous, wholesome and high spirit's English wholeness. If Canada likes my unpretentious production, of course I shall be delighted, but it is the summit of my ambition that they should take to their hearts Roy Bayford, as Falstaff, Wilfred Walter as Petruchio, George Hayes as Hamlet, Dorothy Mansingham and Mary Holder as the Merry Wives of Windsor, and indeed, the whole company in the many parts in which they are to be seen during the coming tour."

I heard recently a good story illustrative of the smart business methods which have made Mr. Gordon Selfridge one of the biggest retail traders in the world. When Gordon Selfridge first opened in Chicago in quite a small way, many years ago, a rival tradesman across the street put up a big sign. "Established one hundred years."

Selfridge promptly erected a still bigger sign, which read: "Established yesterday. No old stock."

POPULAR TEAM IN THEIR BEST FILM

Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle Star in "Wickedness Preferred" at Columbia

In "Wickedness Preferred," showing at the Columbia Theatre tomorrow, Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle give the best performance of their co-starring career, far outdoing their work in such successes as "Adam and Evil" and "Tea for Three."

Cody and Miss Pringle have developed into one of the best sophisticated comedy teams of the screen, and in "Wickedness Preferred" have a vehicle worthy of their best efforts.

They never failed to take advantage of the least opportunity for comedy play, and both prove their right to stardom by the masterful way in which they have handled their roles.

Cody is seen as a pseudo South Sea Island explorer and adventurer, a writer of stirring autobiographies and the hero of thrilling adventures that would make any addle-brained young woman dissatisfied with a prosaic and fat spouse.

Miss Pringle is cast in the role of his long-suffering wife to whom he dictates his stories from data gathered from encyclopedias.

Bert Roach is seen as a fat husband with a furious flapper of the empty-headed type, as played by Mary McAllister.

Diction Competition At Victoria School of Expression Arranged

A diction competition will be held at the Victoria School of Expression during the present season. The purpose of this will be to create the highest possible standard of musical and cultivated speech without affectation or exaggeration of any kind. The high standard expected today from any speaker on stage or platform has created a demand for adequate voice and speech training. In future, therefore, a department of the school will be devoted to this work. Dramatic art will only be taken with serious students who are willing to devote time and attention to the training of the voice. A talented person will be always talented without teaching, but for distinguished work the ability to use the voice properly is necessary. This accomplishment means as much or more to the speaker in public as it does to the person who needs a cultivated voice for social life only. The lover of naturalness need never fear becoming stagey artificial or sepulchral under proper training.

JUNE MARLOWE IN 'ALIAS DEACON'

High School Girl Seen in Feature Starring Jean Hersholt at Playhouse

Still another Hollywood high school girl to win success on the screen is June Marlowe, who plays the ingenu lead in "Alias the Deacon," the Universal production starring Jean Hersholt, which is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Playhouse Theatre for a week.

Although she has been on the screen less than three years, Miss Marlowe has played a number of prominent roles, and is rapidly acquiring a large following of enthusiastic fans. Her most important work was in "The Old Maid," and her performance in this picture resulted in Universal's offering her a contract which will insure her association with the company for a period of several years.

The large cast of "Alias the Deacon" includes, in addition to Hersholt, the star, and Miss Marlowe, such prominent players as Myrtle Stedman, Ralph Lincoln Plummer, Ned Sparks, Tom Kennedy, Maurice Murphy and others.

BRITAIN TO HAVE OWN HOLLYWOOD

New Garden City Building at Elstree to Contain 3,000 Houses for Artists

A new garden city is to be constructed at Elstree, England, which will correspond to America's Hollywood—to meet the needs of work-ers in the film trade. A site of 635 acres has been acquired between Sharnley Road and the New Barnet Arterial Road, and work on it is starting at once.

The agents will be the Housing Corporation of Great Britain, who are to act as managing agents to the estates and supervise the operations. All the houses will be fitted with labor-saving devices, and the design they are built on will secure a maximum of sunshine. There will be electric light and power and central heating supplied from a central plant, and only smokeless fuel will be used in open grates.

There will also be a residential country club in the centre of the estate, with swimming pool, lawn tennis and squash racket courts, a ballroom, a central community garage and accommodation for chauffeurs.

A cinema will also be built in which films produced at Elstree will be shown before they are released for general exhibition. There are three studios near the estate, those of British International Pictures, Ltd., the Blatner Picture Corporation, and Whitehall Films.

When the new garden city is completed there will be 3,000 houses. The great advantage of the great difficulty felt by those at present working in the studios who have to come from a considerable distance, to begin their work early in the morning, and cannot leave it until late at night.

LONDON THEATRE JUST FOR KIDDIES

Adults Welcome to Tiny Playhouse, but Undertaking Primarily for Youngsters

MISS JOAN LUXTON

In the heart of London's theatre-land, in a narrow street off Shaftesbury Avenue, stands what is probably the smallest "professional" theatre in the world.

It was once a magento shop, a narrow, ugly building in a dull Victorian street. Now it has a brightly painted foyer, pale grey walls and brown plush curtains, while a brilliant blue and gold sign over the street bears the magic words, "Children's Theatre."

About a year ago Miss Joan Luxton, a pretty young West End actress, set herself the task of supplying a long-needed want—a permanent place of entertainment, open all the year round, that should cater exclusively to children.

"My ideal," said Miss Luxton, "was to produce an entertainment, colorful, tuneful and humorous, that would appeal to children's imaginations without being too consciously educational or highbrow."

"It was uphill work at first, but when once the theatre was ready a number of professional actors and actresses rallied to my help, and we have never suffered from lack of players. All my company are professionals, mostly young, and they are glad to do the work for an expense fee only. As our performances begin at 5:45 each evening, the players are able to fit into the work with their appearances at the regular 'grown-up' theatres."

"We do everything ourselves—scene-painting, scene-shifting, lighting and dressing. This enables us to keep the overhead expenses remarkably low. The theatre is run on ordinary business lines, however. It is licensed by the Lord Chamberlain and the London County Council just as the larger West End theatres are, and it is completely equipped with stage lighting, etc."

The little theatre seats 115 people, and the prices range from five shillings to one shilling twopenny, children half price. A certain number of poor children in the neighborhood are allowed in for free, however, and it is whispered that some of the very poor occasionally get seats for nothing.

"We have to rely, of course, on the higher priced seats being filled. Luckily, the grown-ups seem to find our entertainment as amusing as the children do. But we always intend to have a certain number of seats available at really cheap prices, because we believe the spot drama has a very definite place in education, as well as in the amusement of children, and should be accessible to them, however slender their resources."

A TYPICAL "NIGHT"

The house was full and the air was full of excitement. When the footlights went up there was a roar of applause, and when the "orchestra," in the form of a very pretty young pianist, arrived, she was nearly mobbed.

The entertainment began with a typical children's play with a witch and her cat (as comic relief), and two young men seeking their fortune—and a moral. After it followed the most delightful dramatization of old songs and sea shanties, all beautifully decorated in the modern manner, some of them reminiscent of the famous Chauve-Souris, and each received with the greatest enthusiasm by the youthful audience.

Finally came the piece de resistance, a fairy play in three scenes, entitled "Half Past Thirteen," dealing with the adventures of a small boy—no, a man—called Tony, who visited Fairyland via the grandfather clock, had amazing adventures, and brought back to earth with him a fairy princess to be his baby sister.

After the show had ended the small clients had to be forcibly ejected by firm but kind attendants, while a little band of admirers clustered round the stage door to catch a last glimpse of the lovely heroine in all the plays, and who has brought color and joy into drab version to the bleak existence of their more fortunate brothers and sisters.

"It will be a serious position to wake up in war to find that requirements in horses cannot be met because the fountain has been allowed to dry up, and it is obvious that during war the casualties in horses will be enormous. As war progresses, machine hospitals will be a mighty part of ineffective, hopeless of repair and in many cases, difficult to get rid of, and a picture of awful expense. As an economic and indispensable factor in an army, the horse rises and will continue to rise supreme over any mechanical alternative."

Doris (dramatist)—"Do you believe in love at first sight, Phyllis?"
Phyllis—"No. The first time I saw Harry was in a limousine, and I fell desperately in love with him. I found out later that it was hired."

Motion Pictures as Patriotic Education

By J. O. GRAY

In the lion's country there is the jackal and the fox, all born in the same country. Because a man is British-born means nothing, unless he is patriotic to the King and to the flag. A British-born man may be a flashback to a foreign country of even a thousand years ago and antagonistic to the King and to the Empire.

To overcome heredity, we must start working on the brain of the child while the brain is flexible and soft. It makes no difference whether the child is born of British parents or whether the child is born of foreign parents. What is needed is a patriotic education.

When the brain hardens and congeals, hope of making impressions is fruitless. Hardened and congealed, the brain is nothing more or less than a phonograph record playing the same tune over and over again, week after week, month after month and year after year.

The human phonograph record may be vibrating a tune of great wealth and tremendous political power, but if no impression of the beloved King was imprinted on the human phonograph record at the time that it was made, then the country is bound to suffer.

The motion picture is our greatest asset. Look at what American pictures are doing today. The American motion picture has become a great pioneer of foreign trade that agents and consuls had been unable to unlock.

The sewing machine, the automobile and other modern products are popular in China and elsewhere as soon as they were seen in American pictures.

The great American motion picture industry is taking its place as a natural industrial upholder. It is all the more effective because it deals no drums, distributes no commodities, quotes no prices, solicits no business, it speaks into the minds of the people of all countries and captivates them.

All through the ages other lands have spread no ingenuity, no expense to distant markets, for these have been the magic key to national prosperity.

Fair colonies have been planted, merchant markets have been built, imperialistic programmes devised and bitter wars waged.

Yet in her silent silver screen the United States has developed an agency not only more effective than consuls and commercial strategists, but an agency which, far from costing the United States money, earns that country money, enlarges the foreign business of the United States of America.

And so we all support, here in the British Empire, this new, worldwide volunteer of the United States, the motion picture industry, this new world-wide commerce, this American prosperity, this new method of patriotic and moral education for British children—the American motion picture.

With the most beautiful scenery in all the world at our door, Vancouver Island has not even one motion picture production company to advertise our wonderful Island to all the world, hasn't even a little baby hand to stretch out to gather in some of our millions from the "pot of gold" at the movie rainbow's end.

Let us see more of our own flag, the British Empire, and less of the trash that is now being forced upon us.

HORSES MUST HAVE PLACE IN WARTIME

Former Veterinary Chief Says Machine Casualties Will Exceed Those of Horses

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, Oct. 6.—Contending that war "machine casualties" would be filled with ineffective mechanized units hopeless of repairs, Major-General Sir John Moore, formerly director of the Army Veterinary Service, has warned the Government against placing too much faith in the new mechanized army in time of war.

Addressing the National Veterinary Medical Association Congress, Sir John said "Mechanization has descended on the army, and the outlook generally for light horses for commercial, private and army purposes is not too bright. Any innovation, such as progressive mechanization of any mounted units, which tends to wipe out or reduce the outlet for the sale of the cheaper light horse known as mules, is a serious blow to light horse breeding, and I appeal to the army authorities and the Government to bear this issue carefully in mind. The latest figures show that the strength of the home army in horses is 14,502, compared with 22,774 in 1912.

"For the army to advance exaggerated claims on behalf of mechanization, based on movement and manoeuvre in easy and open country like Salisbury Plain, would be altogether untrue. In war, the criterion of the next. Theatres of war are different, and it is reasonable to assert that as the country to be traversed becomes more difficult so does the mobility of horses proportionately exceed that of machines. At all events, as in civil life, there is room for both horse and machine, without denying the identity of any particular unit of mounted troops.

"It will be a serious position to wake up in war to find that requirements in horses cannot be met because the fountain has been allowed to dry up, and it is obvious that during war the casualties in horses will be enormous. As war progresses, machine hospitals will be a mighty part of ineffective, hopeless of repair and in many cases, difficult to get rid of, and a picture of awful expense. As an economic and indispensable factor in an army, the horse rises and will continue to rise supreme over any mechanical alternative."

Doris (dramatist)—"Do you believe in love at first sight, Phyllis?"
Phyllis—"No. The first time I saw Harry was in a limousine, and I fell desperately in love with him. I found out later that it was hired."

SEGRAVE SEEKS NEW AUTO MARK

Secrecy in Construction Maintained—Will Make Attempts at Daytona, Fla., Next March

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Much care is being taken to prevent leakage of details of the car and motorboat in which Major H. O. D. Segrave is to attempt to set up new world speed records in America next March.

Details of construction would, of course, be extremely useful to a foreign rival, and in order to maintain secrecy, the car is being made in parts in twenty-eight different British works, and not one knows what the other is doing. When the parts are ready the car will be assembled in another secret factory.

"Without disclosing any secret which would be detrimental to British prestige, I can say that by original estimate of a speed of 260 miles per hour can now be said to be guaranteed," says the automobile editor of The Daily News.

"There is every reason, in fact, that any new record made between now and March will look insignificant when Major Segrave lets his new car out on the Daytona sands next year.

"Its designer, Captain J. Irving, one of the finest automobile engineers in Britain, who was mostly responsible for the building of the 1,000-horsepower car on which Segrave was the pioneer of 200 miles per hour, has created a machine which, as far as humanly possible, will be free from danger, and the tire company is confident of producing the tire with a satisfactory margin stress safety.

"The keel of the 1,000-horsepower hydroplane hull was laid down in a secret building yard on the South Coast this week. Co-operating with Major Segrave in his motorboat speed training is J. Dutoit, a clever and capable engineer. Between them they have tuned a 500-horsepower boat to travel at over seventy-five miles per hour, and when the special 1,000-horsepower boat is ready for the test Segrave will be experienced enough to handle her."

Cosgrave Government Frames Omnibus Laws

DUBLIN, Oct. 6.—The Free State Government is contemplating legislation to deal with the growing problem of motor omnibus traffic. At present the authorities have very little control over the road transport, being forced to depend almost entirely on the Carriage Acts passed in the middle of the last century.

sapphires are made by means of reducing bits of ruby and sapphire to a very fine powder. The powder is then reassembled and stones of almost any size can be fabricated. The art of making these synthetic stones has reached such perfection that they can be detected only with the aid of a microscope. They contain minute air particles which are absent in genuine gems. Diamonds continue to baffle the counterfeiters. Various chemists have tried to make synthetic diamonds and one or two have succeeded. The synthetic stones were about the size of a pin head and cost more to make than the price of a genuine stone.

NEW PRESIDENT IS SELECTED

Mr. Harry Langley Is Chosen Head of Royal Society of St. George

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Management of the Royal Society of St. George held Friday evening, Mr. Harry Langley was elected to the office of president of the local branch of the society in Victoria, filling the vacancy caused by the retirement of Rev. R. W. Lee, who was obliged to relinquish the office of president on account of being transferred to the East.

Eulogistic references were made by the various members of the board to the services which have been rendered by Mr. Langley in the office of secretary for a number of years, to his acquaintance with the aims and objects of the movement, and to the enthusiasm he has always shown in working for the interests of the society.

A vote of thanks was tendered Alderman John Harvey, the first vice-president, for serving as acting president from the time of Mr. Lee's retirement in the early spring.

Tentative plans for a masquerade dance to be held on Tuesday, October 30, were presented by Mrs. L. M. Lovatt, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The resignation of Mr. A. E. G. Cornwell as honorary secretary was received with regret, and Mr. Alfred Hallam was appointed acting secretary. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Cornwell for the service he has given as secretary since the beginning of the year.

Arrangements for the social programme on Tuesday, October 16, were left in the hands of Mrs. Bertha Parsons, chairman of the Special Committee.

EARLY TREATMENT OF APPENDICITIS ABSOLUTELY VITAL

Appendicitis is a public health problem because the public need to be told of the early symptoms so that they may promptly secure proper treatment which will greatly reduce the present death rate from this disease.

In the majority of cases appendicitis causes a condition that a physician will readily diagnose. Pain towards the centre of the abdomen, followed by nausea and vomiting, is usually the first symptom. The pain varies in intensity; it may be of a gripping character. Later, the pain usually moves to the right lower part of the abdomen, and the abdominal muscles in that area become hard and tense. This is nature's effort to protect the inflamed part.

When any person—child or adult—has pain in the abdomen, even when the pain is not accompanied by nausea or vomiting, the family physician should be sent for at once. The only satisfactory treatment for appendicitis is operation. The chance of recovery practically depends upon the interval of time between the onset of symptoms and the operation. To delay in securing prompt treatment is to gamble with life itself.

There is one thing in particular that will do a tremendous amount of harm and that will, in many cases, greatly lessen or take away the chance of recovery, and that is the use of a purgative or laxative. No person suffering from abdominal pain should take or be given a purgative or laxative unless it is ordered by a physician. The loss of bowel movements is not going to do any harm, whereas the activity stirred up by a purgative, when nature has kept the bowel quiet on account of an inflamed appendix, may be disastrous.

Abdominal pain is sufficient reason for calling the family physician.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

YOUTH'S FUTURE AT OAK BAY UNITED

Farewell to Rev. Robert and Mrs. Aylward on Departure From Oak Bay

Communion service will be observed at this morning's service at Oak Bay United Church, the pastor, Rev. W. A. Guy, taking as his theme "The Lordship of Jesus." In the evening the Young People's Society will conduct the service. The subject of Mr. Guy's address will be, "Youth's Own High Leadership."

The Women's Association of the Oak Bay United Church held a well-attended meeting on Thursday afternoon when plans for the forthcoming bazaar to be held on November 16 in the schoolroom were discussed. This will be the annual "dollar bazaar" for which the members have been working all summer.

The C.G.I.T. groups of Oak Bay United Church are in full swing with four groups, and the largest registration this year's active organization has ever had. Saturday afternoon the girls, under the leadership of Misses Beth Birkland and Jean Smith, enjoyed a treasure hunt, which took them far afield. At the conclusion the hunters returned to the church, where a supper awaited them.

The reception to Mr. and Mrs. Guy upon their return, and farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Aylward, which was held in Oak Bay United Church on Tuesday evening was an affair long to be remembered by those present. Mr. Guy paid high tribute to the assistance rendered the church by both Mr. and Mrs. Aylward, and in answering, Mr. Aylward expressed the hope that they might be spared to return to Victoria and make their home at the conclusion of his pastorate at Pender Island. A purse and an expression of appreciation in the form of a gift from the congregation and missionary society respectively were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Aylward.

On Monday, at 8 o'clock, the Victoria Independent Theological Society will hold a public meeting in their rooms, 204 Jones Building, Fort Street, the subject for consideration being "Theosophy and Spiritualism." Open discussion by the public is invited.
